SANTA BARBARA IS MENACED BY BLAZE

SANTA BARBARA, July 13.—A brush fire which menaced Santa Barbara was brought under control today by the heroic efforts of U. S. marines and hundreds of volunteer fire-fighters.

Aided by a 50-mile gale, the blaze swept over 100 acres on Mission Ridge, overlooking the city, before it was stopped.

The exclusive El Encanto hotel, one of the few hosteries in Santa Barbara not razed by the recent earthquake, narrowly averted the fire. One of the garages in the rear caught fire, but the blaze was quickly extinguished. The state teachers' college was saved also by the quick work of the volunteer firemen.

Guests of the hotel had removed their belongings and joined the volunteer fire-fighting brigade. Many residents in the exclusive Mission ridge section moved their household effects and furniture into the streets.

Surrounding cities sent their fire departments to the scene and aided in extinguishing the flames. Santa Barbara's business district, still pilled with quake debris, was enveloped with dense clouds of smoke for several hours.

HENNING ON BENCH

LOS ANGELES, July 13.—E. J. Henning, former assistant secretary of labor, assumed his duties as federal judge of the southern district of California today. Henning was appointed several months ago by President Coolidge to succeed Benjamin F. Bidwell, who resigned to run for mayor.

QUAINT OLD TENNESSEE BARRISTER AROUSES IRE OF DUDLEY FIELD MALONE

DAYTON, Tenn., July 13.—A quaint old Tennessee county lawyer, with his glasses on the end of his nose, touched off some vesal fireworks at the resumption of the Scopes trial today.

Dudley Field Malone, of New York, one of the defense attorneys, leaped to his feet in angry protest when Gen. Ben McKenzie, a local character, who is assisting the prosecution, referred dryly to the apparent inability of "these New York lawyers" to understand the anti-evolution law of Tennessee, "which is so simple a 16-year-old country school boy gets it."

Malone indignantly demanded defense against "contemptuous references" to himself and his colleagues, and Judge John T. Raulston smoothed things over by apologizing and saying perhaps the "foreign" counsel didn't understand General McKenzie as well as the home folk did.

The outburst came during argument over a motion by the defense to dismiss the indictment against John T. Scopes. Attorneys Neal and Hays spoke for the defense.

The latter stirred up a hornet's nest by humorously introducing an indictment, couched in the terms of that drawn against Scopes, citing a law which forbade anyone, under penalty of death, from teaching any theory except that which held that the earth was the center of the universe and that the sun moved around it from the east to the west.

General McKenzie, speaking for the prosecution, said:

"No such law ever passed through the brain of a Tennesseean. I do not know what place Hays comes from."

Hays is attorney for the American-civic liberties union, of New York.

Further references by the general to New York lawyers aroused Malone's ire.

FRENCH START TO EVACUATE RUHR DISTRICT

(By United Press)

LONDON, July 13.—Evacuation of the Ruhr by French troops was begun today, according to a Central News dispatch from Berlin.

Virtually all troops were reported to have left Gelsenkirchen, one of the important centers in the great western Germany coal and iron region.

Both Paris and Brussels dispatches recently have announced the intention of France and Belgium to expedite the clearance of the Ruhr, which originally, under the London agreement, was scheduled for August. France is sending some of the Ruhr forces to Morocco to aid in a new drive against the Rifian forces of Abd-el-Krim.

Two Officers of Reserve Killed In Plane Crash

WESTBURY, L. I., July 13.—First Lieut. Charles K. Hickey, Brockton, Mass., and Walter Perry, Marlborough, Mass., were killed here today in an airplane crash.

The men had taken off a few minutes previously from Mitchell field in a Curtiss plane. They were reserve officers on two weeks' active duty at Mitchell field.

Inquiry Board In Coal War Named

LONDON, July 13.—The government today named a court of inquiry, headed by H. P. MacMillan, to investigate the deadlock between coal miners and owners. The inquiry board is named after the late Lord of the Admiralty Bridgeman had failed to settle differences between the two groups.

Bride Shoots Herself After Quarrel

HOLLYWOOD, July 13.—Ruth Scull, 23, bride of five months, ended her first domestic quarrel by shooting herself to death. In a dying statement to police, the girl said:

"Don't blame my husband; I shot myself; it was our first quarrel and I still love him; I want to live now."

William R. Scull, the husband, refused to tell police the nature of the first quarrel which ended in tragedy. Police said they probably would have held him for the shooting if the wife had not exonerated him before she died.

GAS POCKETS ARE FOUND BY OIL DRILLERS

With the drill operating at a depth of 2266 feet, Standard Oil drillers yesterday ran into pockets of gas in the well the company is sinking on the Santa Ana Gardens tract, according to a statement today by C. H. DeWolfe, manager of the Wilmax Land company, owner of the property.

DeWolfe says that indications are very favorable to the development of oil. Fairly good progress is being made in driving the hole down.

Considerable interest in the boring operations on the ranch was developed a few days ago when the drillers encountered, at a depth of approximately 1000 feet, a cedar tree. Indications were that the drill ran into a cedar tree 15 to 18 feet high, that had been buried for ages. The drill went through the entire length of the tree, it was said.

Neilan Accused Of Driving His Car While Drunk

SANTA MONICA, July 13.—Marshall Neilan, well known film director, was accused of driving his imported speedster while intoxicated in a complaint filed in police court here today.

Officers who arrested Neilan late last night said the director crashed into a traffic signal, while racing through the center of town with an unidentified woman companion. The latter's pretty face was cut up by broken glass from the windshield, police said.

The woman hailed a passing taxicab and fled before her identity was revealed.

Neilan is married to Blanche Sweet, Hollywood actress.

20 Japanese Are Ousted from Town

TOLEDO, Ore., July 13.—Lincoln county authorities today were investigating the raid in Toledo late yesterday, when 20 Japanese laborers at the Pacific Spruce corporation mill were forced out of town by a band of about 400 white laborers and sympathizers. Sheriff Horzfall was holding under arrest M. Gormer, charged with being ringleader of the affair. Several others also were arrested, but were released on their recognizance.

Bills from All Parts of Country Arrive In Rose City for Big Convention

START 'TO DO TOWN'

Blue Monday, 13th Day of Month, Doesn't Dampen Spirit of Antlered Herd

(By United Press)

PORTLAND, Oregon, July 13.—The fact that today is "blue" Monday and also the 13th had nothing to do with the spirit of thousands of Elks who stormed the city for the national convention of the lodge.

All day special trains rolled in at the union station, bringing "Bills" from the four corners of the country at an average rate of about one train every half hour.

Some of them were here back in 1912, when Portland first entertained the antlered herd in national reunion. They said they were going to have another good time and forthwith started to "do the town" with bands and drill teams.

The formal grand lodge ceremonies, which will open the convention, are scheduled for tonight. They will be broadcast from station KGW, 491.5 meters.

Texas and Oklahoma delegates were the first in today. Their train arrived at 4 a. m., and hauled in at a siding in order to give the sleepy lodge men time to get awake. That didn't take long, however. Salt Lake and Iowa representatives followed soon after.

Portland was in best dress, with purple and white predominating. Streamers, bunting and flags were everywhere. At every important street intersection four Elk girl statues, white with robes of purple, stood facing the center, one on each corner.

Portlanders tried to display their hospitality to the best advantage. Thousands of automobiles were seen everywhere, with streamers across the windshields reading: "Ride free, Bill; climb in."

Widow of Ladd Asks Secretary Be Given Post

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Recommendation that Douglas H. McArthur, secretary to the late Senator Ladd, North Dakota, Republican, be appointed to succeed Senator Ladd, was made by the widow of the senator in a letter to Governor Sorlie, of North Dakota, today.

"I would hate to see one not in sympathy with these principles selected as his successor, and I believe it is due Mr. Ladd that I write you and inform you of this belief."

STOP PUBLIC PREACHING AT DAYTON IN ORDER TO PREVENT STREET BRAWLS

(By United Press)

DAYTON, Tenn., July 13.—Public preaching in Dayton is over for the duration of the Scopes trial. A rising tide of feeling in the town over religious questions has led city authorities to cancel all permits for speaking and put the lid on to prevent any trouble.

If two persons raise their voices in argument on the sidewalk and draw the beginnings of a crowd, a city constable or one of Chattanooga uniformed policemen interrupts with the order to "move on."

A week ago, it was impossible to "get a rise" out of the people on the evolution question. They didn't believe in evolution, but they had a feeling of friendly tolerance for those who did. "Talk evolution to me, so why should I care?" was their attitude.

But a transformation has come about. The bitter contentedness of the opposing sides in the courthouse, the spirit of discord over whether scientists shall be permitted to

PEACH-PEELING JUDGE ON BENCH AT EVOLUTION TRIAL

Above—Judge John T. Raulston, who is hearing the world-famous evolution trial in the village of Dayton, Tenn., is quite domestic in his tastes. He is here shown sitting on the back step of his red brick cottage at Winchester, Tenn., peeling peaches with nimble fingers, while his wife (inset) stewed and canned the fruit in the kitchen.

Right—Prof. George W. Hunter, of Knox college, Galesburg, Ill. It was his book, "Civic Biology," that caused John T. Scopes to be indicted at Dayton for teaching evolution in violation of the Tennessee statute. The Knox professor is not attending the trial.

HIRES 100 MEN TO SEARCH FOR SON

PASADENA, July 13.—A. E. Foote, wealthy Pasadena, employed 100 men today to search for his missing son, Ned, 17, of the Pasadena Military academy, and offered $1000 reward for the lad's safe return.

Young Foote has been lost in Mammoth mountains, 45 miles north of Bishop, since Saturday afternoon. He and his father were camping at Mammoth lakes, and after an excursion into the mountains, the boy failed to return. It is believed he became lost or met with accident and was unable to make his way back.

The elder Foote also telegraphed Governor Richardson at Sacramento, asking that state troops aid in the search.

Coolidge To Feast On $15,000 Goose

HOLLYWOOD, July 13.—"Enoch," Hollywood's goose actor, was started on his way to Swampscott, Mass., today where it is hoped he will make a delectable roast for President and Mrs. Coolidge. The bird, insured at $15,000, was owned by Louise Dresser, and for the last two years has co-starred with the actress in pictures.

SEEK UNKNOWN MAN IN SISTERS' DEATHS

SIoux CITY, Ia., July 13.—Police today appealed to authorities in surrounding towns and cities for aid in capturing an unidentified man who, it is believed, can explain the deaths of two sisters, Mrs. Josie Goodwin, 59, and Mrs. Elizabeth Anthony, 56.

The bodies of the women were found Sunday in their home. Death was due to asphyxiation, the gas feed pipe in the house having been disconnected.

The women were last seen Friday night. The man in the case was with them and all three were said to have been intoxicated and quarreling.

Tot Is Strangled On Bean Strings

LOS ANGELES, July 13.—While his mother looked on, Willard Herman, aged 3, was strangled to death Sunday on strings of beans. The woman was preparing for a meal. The lad was playing about the house and grabbed the strings that his mother had removed from the beans and swallowed them. A physician's report showed that the strings had clogged the boy's windpipe.

PRAYER OPENS COURT

Parson Implores Almighty To Bless Jurist and Attorneys in Evolution Case

DAYTON, Tenn., July 13.—Constitutional arguments, precipitated by a motion by attorneys for John T. Scopes to dismiss the indictment against their client, occupied all of today's session of the Tennessee evolution trial.

The anti-evolution law is not unconstitutional, it violates no constitutional guarantees, and is clearly only an exercise of the police power of the state, Attorney General A. T. Stewart declared for the prosecution, in a prolonged address.

Clarence Darrow was due to take the floor in closing the arguments this afternoon.

Judge Raulston will then rule on whether the indictment is to be dismissed or continued.

(By United Press)

DAYTON, Tenn., July 13.—With pent up emotions threatening to burst the bonds of legal restraint at any moment, the trial of John T. Scopes was resumed at 9:22 a. m. today, when Judge Raulston's gavel fell.

Seven hundred spectators, on edge for the clash between William Jennings Bryan and Clarence Darrow, opposing counsel, which was expected momentarily, shifted nervously on their chairs in the crowded court room.

Events over the week end, the bitter statements exchanged by Bryan and Darrow, the resignation of one Dayton pastor, the ban upon public preaching, had served to rouse sides in the evolution trial to fever heat.

Court again was opened with a prayer. The judge asked everyone in the courtroom to stand.

The Rev. W. A. Moffett, pastor of the First Baptist church in Dayton, asked God to "guide the judge that he may give wise decisions. Bless the judge and lawyers on both sides, also the principals in the case and those in the audience. We pray that Thy presence may overshadow the proceedings so that the high ideals of justice and truth may prevail in this court."

It was stifling when Judge John R. Neal, chief counsel for the defense, rose to open proceedings. Attorneys and spectators sat in their shirt sleeves, fanning themselves and stirring stickily.

Judge Raulston had to caution the spectators to make less noise. A police captain stood at his elbow, perspiring profusely in his heavy uniform. Flies droned. Heat waves came in at the open window.

Juror Evolution Teacher Neal asked the judge to call the defense's motion to dismiss the indictment, but Attorney General Stewart interrupted by asking permission to question one of the jurors further.

This juror, W. A. Gentry, had stated under questioning Friday that he had taught evolution in the schools and seemed to be

A "treasure" is to follow the commencement exercises Friday morning. The public is invited to attend the program, but the children only will be remembered with "sweet things," Miss White asserted.

A WORD OF COMFORT
 If your touch with your Heavenly Father has been intermittent or indefinite, of course you can not know from experience the joy and the strength which belong to those who live close to Him day by day and a great grief floors you.
 Make your venture of faith in Him and in His promises of eternity with your beloved ones; draw near to Him seeking for His gracious purposes; seek to understand His will; and you will find yourself equal to every emergency.

Former residents of Coffey county, Kansas, will gather in South park, on South Park avenue, near 54th street, Los Angeles, on August 1, for a picnic dinner. Kansans from other counties will also be welcomed, a notice intimates.

Merchants and professional men who have not yet paid their business license for the third quarter of the year are urged by City Clerk E. L. Vegely to meet the obligation at once as the tax will become delinquent on Wednesday. Payments are coming in slow just now, he reports.

Several Santa Ana Elks are in Portland, Ore., today for the opening of the national convention of their order. The grand convocation is to be held July 13-18 inclusive. Among those who are attending from Santa Ana are D. A. Rossiter, D. B. Dreifel, J. N. Shoemaker, and L. C. Eckles and wife. He is a fellow of the Royal Geographical society, and a member of other scientific-literary organizations.

A motor car with a total length of approximately six feet is causing considerable attention on the streets of Santa Ana. It is supposed to be an advertisement feature introduced by a local finance company. Its exterior is of a brilliant hue, and its power is supplied by a motor of the most cycle variety. The only thing which seems to be of normal size is the steering wheel and the driver. Wire wheels and pneumatic tires hold it in the class of the internal combustion aristocrats.

Swimming classes for girls of 9 and 10 years will be organized at the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock when the first of a series of weekly lessons will be given. Author of Death Note Is Arrested

LOS ANGELES, July 13.—John E. Eggleston, 28, an inventor, was jailed here in connection with the alleged plot to extort $5000 from G. W. Stroud, retired Toledo, O., railway maknate.

Stroud received a letter last week demanding the money under threat of death, and a subsequent telephone call replying the threat.

Eggleston was trapped by detectives when he sought to collect the money. Police said he admitted writing the blackmail note, explaining he needed the money to finance a new invention.

YANKTON, S. D., July 13.—All the fuel, with little exception, to be used during the coming year at charitable, educational and penal institutions of South Dakota will be from the state's own lignite mine near Haynes, N. D. The mine, operation of which by the state began in 1919, is now on a profit paying basis and producing in such quantities that its manager was able to offer prices which enabled almost all the institutions to use the coal at a saving.

BAND CONCERT DEDICATED TO CIVIC BODIES

The first concert of the summer series to be given by the Santa Ana Municipal band, tomorrow evening, at 7:30 o'clock, in Birch park, will be dedicated to the Santa Ana Chambers of Commerce, senior and junior, and to the city officials. It was announced by Conductor D. C. Cianfoni today.

The plan followed last year by the band was to dedicate the programs to different civic organizations and to have representatives of them participate in the program. This idea is to be carried out again this year, according to Cianfoni, and announcements will be made each week naming the city group to whose honor the concert is played.

An entirely new program will be heard Tuesday evening. Several of the well-known overtures are on the program in combination with the lighter popular melodies of the day. Parents are asked to keep their children with them to avoid keeping noise and confusion at the minimum while the band is playing.

Following is the program:
 March, "More Fraternity," (Henry Fillmore).
 Overture, "Orpheus," (Offenbach).
 Paraphrase, "Near My God to Thee," (Otto Lange).
 Selection, "Babes in Toyland," (Herbert).
 Baritone Solo, "Gypsy Love Song," (Herbert), by Robert Brown.
 Selection, "The Red Widow," (Chas. Gebe).
 Polka, "My Hope," (Liberati).
 Grand Finale, "American Fantasia," (Arranged by Cianfoni).

BROKEN HIP IS NO BARRIER IN QUEST FOR KIN

The days of the stoics are not yet over. A modern prototype has been found.

J. A. Powellson, of 501 East Fifth street, Santa Ana, yesterday underwent an ordeal which might well be compared with any of the feats of ancient history.

Powellson, who is a well-known local character and spends much time around the courts, serving on juries and listening to cases, rode all day in a blistering sun with a broken hip, declining medical aid until he returned to this city from Bakersfield, whence he went in search of relatives from Iowa. He received a message from Birmingham, Ia., that Mr. and Mrs. Frank Small, relatives, were urgently needed back home on account of the serious illness of near kin.

Starting off with his son, O. A. Powellson, late Saturday, they reached San Fernando and stayed there for the night. Mr. and Mrs. Small were headed north on an auto trip.

Just before leaving the auto camp at San Fernando, at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, the elder Powellson slipped off a high curb and fractured his hip bone. Making light of the hurt, he told his son to continue the quest and drive on to Bakersfield. Although suffering excruciating pain, he told his son from time to time that his hurt was not serious and urged him to continue on the way.

Bakersfield was reached and a search failed to reveal the couple of whom they were in search, so the return trip was started. It was not until arrival back in Santa Ana that Powellson would allow a physician to be called.

Funeral Singer Is Laid to Rest

FRENCH GULCH, Calif., July 13.—The funeral of George R. Simmons was held here recently. For 30 years or more he had invariably been one of the singers at funerals here. The song in which his bass voice was so frequently heard was sung at the graveside. The decedent, too, had frequently officiated at funerals, his addresses always being considered appropriate and comforting. The funeral was attended by nearly everybody in French Gulch.

Prince of Wales Bans Death Dance

JOHANNESBURG, Africa, July 13.—Natives entertaining the Prince of Wales with the shangaan and matabele dances were disappointed because they were not allowed to follow their custom of dancing until one of the number fell dead.

The WELL-DRESSED MAN

By BEAUNASH
 Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

SOFT SPORTING STRAWS
 Once upon a time, men's fashions consisted of a "Sunday best" black suit and another dark one for week days, together with "hard-boiled" white shirts, black cravats, starched collars, black hose, high shoes and a "stiff" hat. Dressing well, or rather dressing up, as one termed it in those days, was "just the stuff to try the son's strength on," to quote Robert Browning. Styles were "hard-boiled," colorless and characterless; without initiative and individuality. No matter what you put on, you always looked the same. A thousand or ten thousand men were turned out as alike as soldiers in their regimentals. Then, dressing for the day was not a pleasure, but a task, doubly depressing because the choice of colors and patterns was limited to "conservative" or "gentle" effects. To exercise taste or personality in one's appearance was to risk being put down as a dude or a "silly awss" or a stage-door Johnny.

The thing which lends charm to present-day styles is their variety and the recent vogue of bolder colors. If you possess a correct and complete wardrobe, you can make yourself look different to yourself every morning. You can't change your figure, but a hat can. You can't change your figure, but a suit can. You can't slenderize your build or add to your height, but a well-chosen cloth pattern can convey this impression. A man can not work wonders with dress as a woman can and does, but he can make himself twice as presentable by owning an abundance of clothes and by daily changes of suits and their accessories.

A case in point—straw hats. For, you wear, they may be stiff, such as the familiar sailor, yacht or bowler shape. For sporting and country use, they should be soft and pliable, such as the Panama, Leghorn, Bangkok, Milan or Mackinaw weaves, one of which is sketched here. A soft-braid straw properly befits open spaces and cool stretches. A rigid shape looks too formal and is out of keeping with the spirit of sport.

The striped silk ribbon upon a light-weight, soft-weave straw bespeaks youth, jauntness and that detached ease which declines to make a function out of what should be wholly fun. The brim of such a hat may be turned up all around, as shown, or turned down all around, or just fore, or aft or sidewise, according to the whim of the wearer. Details like these are not a matter of fixed fashion, but of becomingness and personal taste. Have at least two straw hats and preferably three. Then, wear them in their proper place and for their proper purpose.

SCHOOL BONDS TO BE TALKED BY H. S. BOARD

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 13.—Interest was today centering on the meeting of the high school trustees scheduled for Wednesday evening. Trustees at that time will probably pass a resolution providing for the calling of a bond election amounting to $300,000 to construct a new school plant here.

The resolution was scheduled to have been passed last week but, following their cautious policy, the trustees held the matter up another week to straighten out a few tangles in their plans.

Plans for the new school building have been under consideration for some time. People of the community have been clamoring for new high school buildings. School trustees hope to have the new plant ready for occupancy in 1926.

Auto Camp Is More Popular Figures Show

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 13.—The Huntington Beach municipal auto camp ground is daily becoming more popular. Nearly 20 machines with as many tents were to be seen in the camp yesterday.

C. M. Wardman, caretaker, has recently completed a summer house, covered with a thatched roof of palm leaves, where campers may sit and read or work. California machines are in the majority with automobiles carrying the license number of Arizona second in number and Colorado ranking third. Many Orange county people take advantage of the comforts offered by the camp ground here and spend their week ends camping. According to Wardman, more than 400 automobiles, averaging four people to the machine, have used the camp ground this year.

REVIVE TALK OF NEW PIER AT BEACH CITY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 13.—Renewed interest in the $1,000,000 horseshoe pier which was talked of here several months ago, was manifested today when announcement reached the chamber of commerce to the effect that promoters of the pier have applied to the United States government for a permit to extend the pier into the Pacific ocean.

Allen C. Rush, a San Francisco engineer, who has the backing of large San Francisco financiers, is the promoter of the $1,000,000 proposition. Rush placed the matter before the chamber of commerce and other civic organizations here some time ago. Since that time the matter has been quietly progressing. It is probable that no further action will be taken on the pier for a considerable time.

The pleasure pier as outlined in plans made public by Rush, will contain many amusements. The pier will extend 1800 feet into the ocean. There will be a small opening at the end of the pier where seagoing boats may enter. The base of the pier will be a patented rock formation, "ruble stone," a composition made by Rush. The solid base formed by the rock will leave an inner harbor of smooth water.

The plans for the construction work will call for dredging the inner basin of the pier. An excellent bathing beach and boating place will be established by the horseshoe. Further action on the proposition will not be taken by Rush until a reply has been made to his request for permission to extend the pier into the ocean.

The Barrier Between

Can one ever escape the consequences of wrong doing? Here is a girl who tried it, and who says it can't be done. She says: "Don't think you can be reckless and get away with it. Your past will always rise up when least expected. Life is one awful fear of exposure. No matter what you pay, the price is never great enough. Several men have proposed marriage to me—but I can never marry. My past is an insurmountable barrier. That's part of the price I shall go on paying for opposing God's Laws." Read this girl's story, which appears complete under the title, "A Social Outcast," in August True Story Magazine.

Sisterly Trio Plans Unique Party With Hawaiian Motif

Happily conceiving the idea of introducing a bit of Hawaii into a Southern California party, a group of three charming sisters, Mrs. Maurice Enderle, Mrs. Francis Cox and Miss Kathleen Owens on Saturday afternoon entertained at bridge in the lovely gardens of the Enderle home on Yorba street.

It was the unanimous opinion of the guests that no place could offer a more attractive setting for a party and that no hour could be more suitable for a warm summer afternoon than 3 o'clock to 7, as the guests lingered until the latter hour, so cool and delightful was the spot. The three youthful hostesses, Mrs. Enderle in blue flowered chiffon over rose; Mrs. Cox in a gay printed silk and Miss Owens in a net and lace lingerie frock, were assisted in entertaining their guests by their mother, Mrs. I. F. Owens, lovely in platinum gray crepe de chine with brilliant tints in the applied trimmings and wearing a black picture hat.

Two attractive sub-debs, the Misses Mary Jane Owens and Juanita James, distributed the unique score cards, served a delicious fruited punch during the bridge session, and in various other ways, acted as assistant hostesses. With tall eucalyptus trees warding off the rays of the afternoon sun, the garden with its gold-embellished orange trees, its formal box hedge and borders of vivid zinnias, was a most attractive setting for the guests in airy gowns and picturesque garden-party hats.

Score pad covers depicted a moonlight scene on Diamond Head and were hand-painted. Pencils were each topped with a quaint little Hula dancer, grass skirt, long black hair and all. Each of the score cards also bore one of the saucy maidens, and the cards themselves were miniature surf-boards. Riding her board to victory, was the dancer of Mrs. J. Max Patterson who received first prize, an exquisitely embroidered grass-reen and white in sea shells. Miss Edith Cornell received an ebony-framed water-color study of a typical Hawaiian scene and preserved ginger in a brilliant Chinese box was consolation gift to Miss Ruth Frothingham whose surf-ride failed to negotiate the currents.

Manner of awarding the prizes was unique for little Miss Ruth Owens, youngest of the group of sisters, appropriately garbed in grass skirts, anklets and leis, distributed the gifts while her sister, Miss Clara Kate Owens, hung vivid leis around the necks of those who scored high at each table. These were Mrs. George Parker, (Dorothy meade) Mrs. Edwin Holmes, Mrs. J. M. Patterson, Mrs. Elbert Gardner, Mrs. W. S. Kellogg (Iva Lou Webster), Mrs. Chauncey Moore (Marjorie Warner), Miss Ruth Frothingham, Miss Peggy King and Mrs. Harry Matthews (Ollimae Enlow Matthews).

Eloquent of "The Beach at Waikiki" were the appointments of the tables where groups remained for the refreshment interval. Over the immaculate linens was arranged a mat of green effectively simulating jungle grass. A tall and graceful coconut palm bent above a tiny native hut before whose door a dancer, sister of the surf-board riders, danced herself. At each place was laid a deep rose hibiscus blossom whose petals concealed small cups filled with salted almonds and candies. Chicken salad with olives and a wide variety of dainty sandwiches, were followed by a pineapple ice cream with coconut cake and coffee.

Choices of the Hawaiian motif was quite natural considering the fact that Miss Owens so recently returned from a year in Honolulu where she did Y. M. C. A. secretarial work. As her stay drew to a close she was joined by her mother, Mrs. I. F. Owens, who spent several weeks in the Islands, returning to the States with her daughter. One of the guests at Saturday's affair was Miss Joan Dalen of Long Beach, a school friend of Miss Owens who was also in Honolulu with her and who returned to her Long Beach home just a few days ago. Miss Dorothy Walsh of San Pedro, a school friend of Mrs. Enderle's was another out-of-town guest.

Jolly Dozen

The meeting of the Jolly Dozen 500 club was held late last week at the Frank Klatt home, 201 East Washington avenue, the Misses Barbara and Bertha Klatt being the genial hostesses.

The spacious living rooms were decorated with gorgeous dahlias of various rich hues, plucked from the Klatt garden. Mrs. Charles Schmiedeberg, the newest grandmother of the club, received the congratulations of the members upon the birth of a grand-daughter on Wednesday last, the proud parents being Mr. and Mrs. Leo Schmiedeberg.

Following the series of interesting games, the hostesses served delicious home-made ice cream and cakes with coffee.

Those present were Meses. George W. Young, J. W. Markel, Olive Palmer, John Rudolph, W. J. Schonberger, E. B. Collier, A. F. LaGaye, R. R. Aitken, S. E. Groty, Frank Klatt, James A. Manwaring and little daughter, Betty Nan of Hollywood, and the Misses Barbara, Bertha, Genevieve and Armella Klatt.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Dryer, 702 East Fifth street.

County Supervisor and Banker Prove Their Cooking Ability

Dancing and perfectly broiled steaks shared honors as entertainment features of one of the merriest parties of the week-end, a steak bake and dance, at which Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Crawford of this city and Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Talbert of Huntington Beach gathered together the members of two lively dancing clubs and a few friends for an informal courtesy to the Talbert's houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. Schweiker of South America.

Mr. Talbert proved that his supervisory duties had in no wise conflicted with his ability as a chef, by broiling huge steaks to a toothsome turn for the hungry group assembled at the Huntington Beach pier. He was competently aided by his brother host, Mr. Crawford and with the steaks were served an appetizing salad and a luscious Italian concoction of spaghetti and savory meats, vegetables and seasonings. Coffee and iced melons completed the supper menu and when the picnicers were sufficiently recovered, way was led to the pavilion where the remainder of the evening was devoted to dancing to an enjoyable program offered by a negro orchestra whose members frequently burst into song as they played.

Added to the members of the dancing clubs, were a few Huntington Beach folk who had known Mrs. Schweiker several years ago and were happy to greet her again. Sharing the gaiety of the evening with Mr. and Mrs. Talbert and Mr. and Mrs. Crawford and the honorees, Mr. and Mrs. Schweiker were Mrs. Crawford's parents and her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Leck and Miss Zena Leck of Laguna Beach, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Bowen, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Tietze, Huntington Beach; Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Boyer, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Boden, Mr. and Mrs. Cotton Mather, Dr. and Mrs. A. Harwood, Lt. Col. and Mrs. L. Landis, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Metzgar, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Nau, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Nowotney, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Olivari, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. Theo Winbiger, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Zaiser, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Zaiser, Mr. Albert Zaiser, Arthur Lyon and Donald Zaiser.

Past Presidents

A picnic luncheon enjoyed in a garden under tall shade trees, was the happy experience of a group of past presidents of the Daughters of Veterans late last week, when Mrs. A. E. Bell of North Spurgeon street was hostess.

Her home was found to be nicely adapted for such an affair, the garden offering a cool retreat for the picnicers. Each guest added a surprise dish to the menu and the result was a luncheon of unusually delicious foods. Guests found their places by means of flag cards which corresponded to the patriotic motif of the garden decorations. Centering the table was a cluster of red, white and blue blossoms.

Following the picnic, the past presidents sought the comfortable chairs arranged in friendly groups and chatted as they wrangled much dainty bits of needlework. Much of the talk was of future picnic gatherings with interest centering in the big event scheduled for Thursday, July 30, when the Past Presidents' association of Southern California will meet at Birch park.

Enjoying the recent meeting with Mrs. Bell were Mesdames. Leonore Ward, Florence Phillips, May Thomas, Elizabeth Adams, Margaret Robertson, Esther Gardner, Floss La Bounty and Nellie Parker.

Angelenan Returns to Old Home for Pretty Wedding Ceremony

It was with profound interest that childhood friends of Miss Alleen Stafford gathered at the Church of the Messiah yesterday afternoon, to witness the charming ceremony uniting Miss Stafford and Adam Baker, a rising young business man of Los Angeles.

The bride, a niece of E. P. Stafford of this city, is the daughter of Mrs. Lillian Stafford of Los Angeles where the family has made its home for a number of years following residence in this city where the late Oscar Stafford was well known. Miss Stafford has been a teacher in the city schools. Mr. Baker is efficiency expert with the Triangle Express company, his work taking him on short trips to various parts of the state. His bride will accompany him on many of them following their honeymoon and establishment of their home in Los Angeles.

The bridal ceremony at 3 o'clock was charmingly simple. It was presided over by a musical program offered by Miss Shafter of Los Angeles at the organ and Miss Harriet Stafford, young sister of the bride in a group of appropriate wedding songs. The Rev. W. L. H. Benton read the marriage rites in a most impressive manner.

Miss Stafford entered the church to the strains of the Lohengrin Wedding March, leaning on the arm of her uncle, E. P. Stafford. Her gown was a creation of ivory lace and net over pale-pink satin and her flowers were snowy sweet peas and maidenhair fern in shower effect. Attending her as honor-maid was her sister, Miss Carrie Stafford in a frock of orange lace and carrying sweet peas just one tone deeper in color. John Cook of Los Angeles served Mr. Baker as best man.

Following the ceremony the Los Angeles relatives and friends together with a few Santa Ana friends, repaired to the E. P. Stafford home at 118 Edgewood road where an informal reception was staged and cooling refreshments were served with the bride's cake.

Later, donning a smart little printed silk frock in rust shades, the bride with her young husband departed for Balboa Beach where they have taken a cottage for a honeymoon by the sea. Their friends gave them a rousing farewell by fastening an assortment of tin cans to the rear of their automobile and arranging a smoke screen for their departure. It was said that the bridal car could be traced beyond the outskirts of the city by the confetti.

Excellent Recipes For Jelly-Making

When choosing fruit for jelly making keep in mind that the under-ripe rather than the over-ripe fruit is best. The fruit, of course, must be fresh and all imperfections removed.

Whether the jelly "jells" or not depends on the pectin present in the fruit juice. All fruit do not contain this substance, but by combining a fruit rich in pectin with one lacking in it the mixture will jell satisfactorily.

Tart apples are usually conveniently accessible and are rich in pectin so by adding the strained juice of this fruit to the juice poor in pectin, jelly can be made. Commercial pectin can be used if preferred.

To test for pectin put 1 tablespoon cooled and strained fruit juice and 1 tablespoon grain alcohol into a small glass. Stir well and let stand a few minutes. The alcohol will cause the pectin to form a precipitate in the form of a gelatinous mass. Pectin may, of course, be present in different degrees.

Sugar is added to the fruit juice in proportion to the amount of pectin in the juice. Fruits containing a fair amount of pectin will take 3-4 cup of sugar to 1 cup of juice. Green grapes and currants are the only exception to this rule, for these fruits require "cup for cup" of sugar and juice. Sweet

Beach Party Plans Told by Legion Auxiliary

Members of the American Legion auxiliary are going to give themselves a party at Huntington Beach on Thursday evening. It is to be a combination werner roast, bathing party, and birthday celebration as five members of the organization, Mesdames Mary Crissman, Maude Wallace, Margaret Culver, Cassidy and Wollaston, have birthdays within and including three days, the date of the party.

All members of the auxiliary are urged to participate in the good time and those who have not cars to take them will only have to come to the Legion hall where members having cars will be waiting for passengers. The committee composed of Mrs. Fannie Reeves and Mrs. Margaret Hill wish to urge all members having cars and those desiring transportation to be at the Legion hall at 5:30 o'clock sharp. The committee is also in charge of the supper so that all members need remember to bring will be themselves, their bathing suits if they swim, and a thermos of coffee with sugar and cream.

The auxiliary treasury has been enriched over $54 as the result of the breakfast-food sale put on recently in several of the downtown stores by the Kellogg company and at which members of the auxiliary acted as saleswomen. The auxiliary at this time wishes to thank the merchants and friends who co-operated with them so that they might increase their welfare fund which is never enough for the great work the auxiliary does among the disabled veterans.

At the last meeting of the auxiliary it was voted to send $25 to the Santa Barbara American Legion, whose new headquarters were completely wrecked during the earthquake.

At that meeting it was also voted to co-operate with the American Red Cross in Santa Ana in sending jellies, jams, canned fruit and pillows to Camp Kearney. As the auxiliary is planning a cake shower on Camp Kearney hospital for sometime the latter part of August, it was decided to arrange for the jams, jellies, etc., at that time. Anyone in Santa Ana who wishes to contribute a cake or a jar of jam or jelly, or a pillow will be most welcome to do so.

Sunday, July 19, has been set apart by the auxiliary for a trip to La Jolla where 30 or more of the disabled men from Camp Kearney will meet them for a picnic on the beach. The auxiliary members will provide the dinner.

Fruits, like strawberries, peaches, cherries and raspberries lack pectin and after the required juice containing the jelly-making substance is added, need from one-half to two-thirds as much sugar as the combined fruit juices to make a firm jelly.

Current jelly is one of the best jellies to have on hand. It's delicious with roast lamb or mutton, adds a piquant touch to many a dessert and sauce and changes hot biscuits from a necessity to a luxury.

Currants combine well with other fruits.

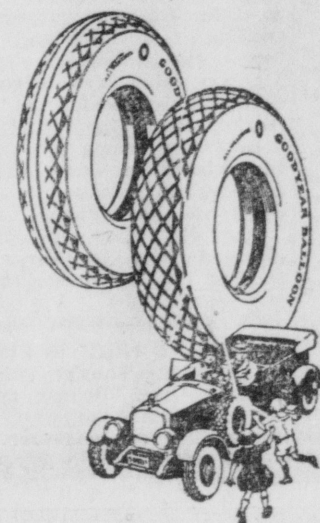

Plain Currant Jelly

Wash currants and pick over but do not remove from stems. Put just enough water in a smooth broad saucepan to prevent burning and add fruit. Cover and bring quickly to the boiling point. Reduce heat and crush with a wooden potato masher. Simmer until currants look white. Strain through a jelly bag without pressing. Measure the unpressed juice and put into a broad saucepan. Bring quickly to the boiling point and slowly sift in as many cups of sugar as there were cups of juice. Do not let the boiling stop while adding the sugar. Boil rapidly until the syrup sheets from the spoon. Or a teaspoonful of syrup poured onto a cold saucer should stiffen and form jelly quickly when the jelly is done. Pour glasses and cover with paraffine when cold.

It is wise to make small amounts of jelly at a time and to make the first "drip" extraction of juice into jelly separately.

All the juice should be pressed from the fruit pulp and made into jelly, adding cup for cup of sugar.

THREE INJURED IN DOWNTOWN CAR COLLISION

Three persons suffered slight injuries in an auto collision at Broadway and Fifth streets last night, according to an accident report to police, filed by Mrs. Zoe Hansen, of Los Angeles. Those hurt were Mrs. C. C. Berg, Venice; P. Eckland, Los Angeles, and Raymond Lee Causey.

Mrs. Hansen declared that she was driving east on Fifth street, when a machine driven by George A. Causey, 2057 Bush street, traveling south on Broadway, struck the left rear wheel of her car, turning it over on its side.

Mrs. Esther Reanumtula and two Mexicans, whose names were not ascertained, were injured in a crash between machines respectively operated by Mrs. Eliza Dzier, 250 South Tustin avenue, Orange, and T. Cifres, Hermosa Beach, Saturday evening near the sugar factory on South Main street. All were able to proceed home after receiving first aid treatment.

Two other accidents were reported over the week end, but no one was injured. The first occurred when the auto driven by Mrs. J. Wilson, of Tustin, and a car operated by an unidentified man collided, and the second, when machines driven by Sherman A. Goring and M. Schnaehberg collided at the intersection of Highland avenue and the Yorba road. The Goring auto turned over, according to the report on file in the sheriff's office.

Traffic Board Is Aid to Londoners

LONDON, July 13.—London's new aid to the solution of handling the city's tremendous volume of street traffic is daily proving its serviceability. It is an honorary board known as the London Traffic Advisory committee and its 12 members serve without pay. Four of its members represent the labor interests, three the railways, trams and busses, and five the general public.

All questions relating to the opening up of "bottle-necks," new highways, sharp turns, etc., are referred to this committee for investigation and recommendation. Improvements that Londoners have noted of late in the speeding up of traffic have largely been credited to the work of this committee.

When one of the spans of the Waterloo bridge sank and the bridge was closed to the public it was the prompt action of this committee in devising an efficient rerouting of the great volume of traffic that this bridge carried which saved London from endless confusion.

Saloon Man Pays Telephone Bill Of Olden Days

EUREKA, Calif., July 13.—The local telephone office recently received a check, made out in blank amount March 5, 1921.

Donor of the check was the proprietor of an institution, now extinct, known as a saloon.

He explained that on the date the check was written it was given to him by a man who had used the telephone for several calls. The amount was left blank to be filled in after the phone company's bill was presented.

The only value of the check now is its interest as a souvenir of departed days and conditions.

COUNTY BOARD MEMBERS ARE ON ROAD HIKE

Reviving consideration of a proposed highway from Elsinore to San Juan Hot Springs via Sevier's canyon, the county board of supervisors today braved the summer's heat for a hike across the proposed route, which is at present impassable to vehicles.

Supervisors Talbert, Finley, Schumacher, Whitsett and Jeffrey, accompanied by road department officials, made the trip, which includes a walk of seven miles over the mountains. The party started from Santa Ana at noon, drove by way of Corona to Elsinore, where the proposed new road would begin. Climbing the range at that point, the officials planned to hike to San Juan Hot Springs, on the Orange county side. Their machines, making the roundabout journey back, were to meet them at the end of the jaunt.

The highway first was suggested a year ago by the U. S. forestry department, which has offered $10,000 toward the project. The forest department wants the road for its own purposes in patrolling the Cleveland National forest, its spokesman stated. The highway also was advocated as a desirable feeder to Newport Harbor from the inland counties.

Deferring action for a year, the supervisors are now said to be considering plans for starting work on the highway.

The dirt road, originally constructed there 10 years ago, was washed out by floods the following year, 1915.

"ROAD HOG" IS FINED

LONDON.—They're fining road hogs in Great Britain now. The driver of a big bus who wouldn't let another car pass for two and a half miles had to pay a fine of $25.

THIRTEEN FAIL IN EXAMS FOR CERTIFICATES

Thirteen of the 27 applicants who last week took examinations for elementary school teaching certificates failed to make the required rating, it was announced today by R. P. Mitchell, county superintendent of schools.

The examinations were held last week in the Frances E. Willard junior high school, under supervision of the county board of education. The examinations, which lasted the entire week, covered 22 subjects, including algebra, literature, plane geometry, vocal music, physiology, hygiene, methods of teaching and California school law.

14 Get Certificates

Following are the names of those who made required ratings and will be given temporary certificates:

Another Test Ahead

Before given appointment as teachers in the public schools of the county, the teachers must pass a satisfactory examination in constitutional law, which requirement may further reduce the number of eligibles for appointment, it was pointed out.

The greater number of those who passed the examination had completed prescribed courses in normal schools or state teachers' colleges, and a few of them had regular university work to their credit.

Profession Is Exacting

Commenting upon the high percentage of failures—nearly 50 percent—in the examinations, Superintendent Mitchell explained that, with the rapid progress made in education, including new and varied requirements, the teaching profession in itself is becoming more exacting as to fitness and preparation, which in turn makes the examinations for certificates more difficult.

"The time has passed when young men and women may take up teaching as a temporary meal ticket for the purpose of financ-

HUNTINGTON BEACH TRUSTEES APPROVE WHITE DUCK PANTS; CHIEF CAN SEE NOTHING AMISS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 13.—Disregarding the opinions expressed by other Southern California municipal authorities in regard to the wearing of white duck trousers by members of the feminine sex, local authorities today expressed themselves as being heartily in favor of the white pants movement.

That the police and municipal authorities would not cast an unfavorable eye on the fair-be-panted ones, was stated today by Chief of Police Jack Tinsley. Tinsley declared that he "could see nothing wrong in the girls wearing the white duck trousers if they wished." Members of the city trustees hold the same view.

"We have had no trouble with the girls here," Tinsley declared today. He added that the girls in Huntington Beach and those who came here did not care to wear the pants unless they had their bathing suits beneath them.

Many of the local girls have taken up the fad of wearing the white duck trousers with white middie blouses. The trousers and blouses are worn in combination with the large Spanish hats now worn at the beaches.

Tinsley declared that the girls in their immaculate white uniforms were rather pleasing to look at.

Local young folks will receive the news that they may bask in the sunlight beneath the covering of a pair of white duck pants with joy. Many a sunburn has been avoided this year, because of the pants, it is claimed by local beach loungers.

Four Tons Beetles Go Through Mails

SEATTLE, Wm., July 13.—Four tons of Japanese beetles were the unusual consignment brought here by the President Grant. The insects were billed through to horticulturists of New York and New Jersey for release in sections where they may combat destructive pests in garden and orchard. The shipment was handled by parcel post, making one of the largest ever mailed through the local post office. The beetles were collected in Japan by the U. S. department of agriculture for experimental work.

Little Girl Saves Tots from Rattler

WESTFIELD, Mass., July 13.—A well-directed stone, thrown by Hazel Moore, 14, broke the neck of a rattlesnake, ready to strike its poisonous fangs into her little brother or sister as they played in the orchard on their parents' farm in Montgomery.

The reptile, which measured more than three feet and had six rattles, was coiled under an apple tree, apparently ready to strike when the older girl saw it.

The first stone she threw landed so far from the snake that it did not disturb it, but the second struck it full in the head, snapping the neck.

Then Hazel picked up the children and ran to the house. Her parents returned with a shotgun, but the snake was dead.

Unearth Indian Villages Built One Atop Other

THE DALLES, Ore., July 13.—Two Indian villages, one on top of the other, have been found in a mound just east of Spalding, by a party of University of California scientists, working here and financed by Henry J. Biddle, of Vancouver, Wn.

It is believed the party may have discovered keys to the carvings and paintings on the Columbia river rocks, near here. The party is headed by William Duncan Strong and W. Egert Schenck. The mound, known among the Indians as "Walkemup," is believed by the scientists to have been formed by the rebuilding of an Indian city on top of previous cities destroyed and covered by the elements. The Lewis and Clark diary mentions the mound as the first place at which the explorers found wooden buildings.

COUNTY POLICE AID IN SEARCH FOR FINANCIER

Aid of the Orange county sheriff's forces has been enlisted by the Los Angeles authorities in a state-wide search for the body of G. Lee Rogers, wealthy automobile financier, of that city, whose disappearance has led to belief that he has been murdered.

Rogers, who is 39 years of age, was last seen on July 3. He said that he intended to spend the Fourth with friends at Long Beach. Papers belonging to the missing man yesterday were found in a small hotel in San Diego. How they reached that place remains veiled in mystery, as it is maintained by the proprietor that Rogers had not been a guest in his hotel. The papers were found in a store room in the hotel.

The missing man was six feet in height, weighed 190 pounds, had light hair, sandy complexion and walked with a limp. He had a large sum of money on his person and wore a valuable three-stone diamond ring and a Shrinist pin. He was attired in a brown suit and a straw hat and low-cut brown shoes.

RICH POSTMASTER GETS $1 PER YEAR

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13.—George A. Newhall, San Francisco capitalist and member of the exclusive Burlingame set, has gone to work for Uncle Sam as a postmaster at a dollar a year salary. Samuel M. Shortridge has received a telegram from First Assistant Postmaster General Bartlett, at Washington, notifying him of the reestablishment of the postoffice at Rubicon Lodge, on Lake Tahoe, and the appointment of Newhall as temporary postmaster for the summer months.

The postoffice at the lodge was discontinued last winter by the Washington authorities, and Newhall, who has a summer place at Rubicon, volunteered to act as postmaster during the summer months, so that those vacationing there might not be inconvenienced by the non-delivery of mail.

Senator Shortridge took up the matter of reestablishing the postoffice during the summer, and presented Newhall's offer to handle the mail there to the Washington postal authorities.

Newhall, a former member of the San Francisco police and fire commissions, will assume his new duties at once, and his dollar-a-year salary will be entered upon the government pay rolls at Washington, according to Senator Shortridge.

Estate Left for Care of Pet Dog

ST. LOUIS, July 13.—Jacob Siler, 83, who died here, left a trust estate of $5000 to care for his dog, Joe.

Last January, anticipating death, Siler, advertised in a newspaper for a home for his pet dog. He received almost 1200 offers.

Siler selected the Mertz home, which had a pond for Joe to swim in, a dog and children for Joe to play with and, in addition, a home for Siler.

Women Police Ask Permits to Slap

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Washington mashers who have smiled when cases against two of their number were dismissed in police court recently, may soon face greater embarrassment than arrest if they make the mistake of flouting with policewomen. Mrs. Miss C. Van Winkle, chief of the policewomen, intends to ask the district commissioners for permission for her sister officers to slap mashers. There are some heavy weights among the policewomen.

Dying Artist Draws Pictures Of Assailants

PARIS, July 13.—Two robbers beat up Rene Berger, a French painter, so badly that he lost his power of speech. Unable to give a verbal description of his assailants, the artist drew pictures of them shortly before his death in a hospital. By using these drawings, the police found and arrested the murderers.

BEACH GIRL IS ACCOSTED IN L. A. THEATER

What is believed to have been a narrow escape from a kidnapping ring, possibly white slave runners, was experienced in Los Angeles Friday night by Miss Mildred Ellen Haigh, 19-year-old Huntington Beach girl, it was reported today.

According to a story told today by the girl, she was accosted in a Los Angeles theater, near Broadway and Eighth streets, by an unidentified man, who threatened her with a revolver. The man, a description of whom has been furnished police, demanded that he be allowed to accompany her home.

Miss Haigh refused his demand, telling him that she did not know him. According to her story, the man informed her that he knew her and that he also knew her cousin, Miss Haigh became frightened, as the cousin to whom the man referred recently was a victim of kidnappers.

When she refused to accompany him, the man became enraged and threatened to shoot her, she told police. Badly frightened, she arose and rushed from the theater. The man followed.

She was found by Los Angeles police a few minutes later wandering near Sixth and Main streets in a hysterical condition. She told police that the man disappeared when she attracted the attention of pedestrians.

Los Angeles authorities are keeping a careful watch for a man answering the description given by the young woman.

Our Neighbors

PASADENA — That Southern California offers to architects opportunities for the development of their art which are not to be found anywhere else in the United States is the declaration of Ralph J. Batchelder, of Indianapolis, one of the most widely known architects in the middle west, who is visiting friends in this city. Mr. Batchelder, before going to Boston, following three years' study in Europe after winning the Roche traveling fellowship. He is a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Mr. Batchelder is senior member of the architectural and engineering firm of Batchelder and Scales, which has designed many notable buildings and residences in the middle west, prominent among which are the new Indianapolis athletic club and the home of Booth Tarkington, the novelist, in Indianapolis. With Mrs. Batchelder and their daughter he made the trip to the coast by automobile for an extended visit. Mr. Batchelder is a cousin of George Hapgood, private secretary of Henry E. Huntington.

SAN DIEGO — San Diego is not in the earthquake "zone," members of the county board of supervisors believe, but they believe, nevertheless, in taking all precautions. A resolution adopted provides that all county buildings of Classes A and B be protected with quake insurance, and policies will be taken out on these structures. The court house, general hospital, detention home and possibly some of the buildings of the poor farm will receive this insurance.

SANTA BARBARA — Poor construction will not be the attributing cause for the destruction of Santa Barbara again, according to City Manager Herbert Nunn, who pointed to the new building code, which he says will govern all construction work in the future and cause Santa Barbara to rise from its ruins on a firm foundation and to stand erect and adequate structural designs known to engineering skill. Santa Barbara's wreckage heaps are credited largely to faulty and inadequate construction according to the City Manager, although the shake was the most severe ever recorded in this section of the country. Poor concrete mixtures were responsible for many tottering walls and demolished structures, according to the engineers who made a detailed survey of the devastated area.

WILMINGTON — "Anaheim Road has been for the past five years one of the busiest thoroughfares in the world," says E. H. Bailey, executive secretary of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce Great Harbor Committee of Two Hundred. He reports an average of over 1000 vehicles an hour on this boulevard. Los Angeles harbor is growing industrially with marvelous rapidity, he said, adding that Wilmington will become one of the wealthiest harbor towns in Southern California.

Motorist Given Surprise Party By Bootleggers

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., July 13.—An Essex county motorist had a breakdown on Bootleg trail, near Schroon lake, during the night and sat in his machine at the side of the road bemoaning his luck and hoping some one would come along and give him a tow. Suddenly a big automobile truck, heavily loaded, roared up behind him and came to a grinding stop alongside his machine. The driver of the truck leaned forward.

"Hello!" he cried.
"Hello!" said the motorist.
"Here you are," interrupted the truckman. He dropped a sealed envelope into the motorist's lap and drove away down the road. The motorist opened the envelope and found a new $100 bill. He had been mistaken for a bootleg pilot car and had received the usual fee.

ORDER HOLDING UP PAVING AT H. B. DISSOLVED

Superior Judge Z. B. West had today dissolved a temporary restraining order held by Elizabeth R. Grafton, Samuel T. McLean and Alfred Alloway, Huntington Beach property owners, who recently protested the contract given to George M. Souter for paving Seventh street, at Huntington Beach.

A motion to quash the order was granted when argued by City Attorney L. W. Blodgett and Attorney H. C. Head, of Head, Rutan and Scovel, both on behalf of the city. Attorneys Person and Rodgers, Los Angeles, opposed the motion for the property owners.

The plaintiff property owners alleged in their petition for an injunction that paving laid by Souter two years ago on Ocean avenue, Fourteenth street and Tenth street, was of inferior quality. The same type has been specified for Seventh street, they alleged.

The West is the Mecca of men of vision

THEY FELL in love with the West... can you blame them?

Akron tire engineers with records of success running back a quarter century, knew the future held much in the East.

Yet when the West won them, they gladly transferred their training, skill and resources to the Pacific Coast.

Today C-T-C tires bear testimony to this pioneer move! Thousands of motorists in nine Western states have discovered that C-T-C engineers have put something into these tires that makes them outrun others.

We shall be glad to give you expert information about your tires, and—if you need them—put on C-T-C's—either balloons, semi-balloons, heavy-duty cords or oversize cords!

Mystery Skipper Puzzles Boatmen At Laguna Beach

LAGUNA BEACH, July 13.—Police authorities of Laguna Beach are puzzled over the actions of the skipper of a power boat that anchored off shore Saturday night. Although he flashed distress signals, the captain would not permit a small boat to get near his own and after asking a few questions, sped away north. Following closely a tip that an attempt would be made to land liquor near Laguna Saturday night, State Traffic Officer F. E. Howell, to whom the matter was reported, turned in an alarm to headquarters at Santa Ana and several men were detailed to assist him. The authorities at Newport Harbor were notified to be on the lookout.

Owing to a fog the lights of Laguna Beach evidently were very dim to the skipper of the boat as he approached the shore. He stopped suddenly and began to flash a distress signal. The boat drifted a little nearer to the shore and then anchor was dropped.

"Where is your dock?" came over the water. "We haven't any dock," some one on shore shouted back. "This is Laguna Beach. You will have to land through the surf from a small boat or go on to Newport harbor."

Gus Derkum, Laguna Beach boatman, put out in a rowboat. As he neared the power boat the captain weighed anchor and backed away. Derkum tried to talk with him and the captain called out: "We don't want anything!"

With that he turned about and sped toward Newport harbor.

Derkum noticed that there was a woman aboard the launch. He has dealt with many skippers and says that the man's actions were very strange.

Capital Letter

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The theory of taxation is that rates should be high enough, but no higher than necessary, to support an efficient government; to pay interest on, and gradually reduce, debts piled up by preceding governments which failed to live within their incomes; that the burden should fall on the taxpayers in proportion to their means.

This is the theory of all taxation, from the federal government's down to the pettiest township's.

But when it comes to the question of tax collection methods, the federal government's theory is one thing, and the theories of state, county and city governments are "something else again."

The federal government's idea is to sugarcoat its taxes all it can—to rely on indirection, particularly the tariff, and stamp duties, which, while they yield revenue, do it so subtly that the average taxpayer doesn't know he's being taxed.

The income tax isn't like this, Lord knows. It's an exception, however—an emergency war tax.

Besides, it catches only a minority. As that, the federal government's aware how unpopular it is. Take note—it's the first federal tax to be reduced.

State and lesser governments prefer the strong-arm method. Summoned into city and county treasurers' offices, the taxpayer is forced to hand spot cash through the wicket, under threat of dispossession of his property—like a highwayman's victim surrendering his dough at the point of a gun.

This extortion has reached proportions lately which alarmed some state governments, lest it breed a revolt, and they're borrowing a few of the federal government's tricks of indirection.

As a general proposition, however, the federal government's taxation policy is to be slick and the local government's policy is to be crude.

The explanation? It seems to be this:

The federal government is so far removed from the masses of voters as to be hardly recognizable as their own creation. If it arouses their resentment, they'll make no allowances.

"A Washington senator or representative fixing Florida's taxes!" Gotta be careful.

But a local government? The people who made it know they made it themselves. It's up to them.

Let a national politician make a mistake and he can't explain to the county. Let a local one arouse his constituents' anger to the boiling point—if he's smooth enough, he can talk 'em out of it.

Federal taxes are high but coming down. State taxes are higher and coming up. County taxes are higher yet and coming up still faster. City taxes are highest of all and no rise equals theirs.

The nearer you get to the people, who have the most to say about their own local affairs, the worse the situation gets.

The natural conclusion is that the people, basically, are least to be trusted of all.

It's axiomatic that a people gets as good a government as it deserves. The American people seem to be getting to better ones, all up and down the line.

Then why so much kicking about taxes—and other things? We ought to be pretty well satisfied.

Burglar Falls In Love With Victim

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 13.—Madame Duiller, the beautiful wife of a wealthy tradesman, found this note at her pillow when she awoke one morning: "Signorina—Last night I visited your flat when you were asleep in order to rob you. I collected your jewels and some other valuables, which I am greatly ashamed to say I intended taking with me."

"I saw you sleeping peacefully and fell in love with you. I sat by your bedside for 10 minutes 'devouring' your beauty, and became ashamed of myself. Therefore, I restore you your jewels. Your humble admirer."

SAYS AMERICAN MOVIES DEPICT WANTON WASTE

LONDON, July 13.—American motion picture films depicting immoral relations between the sexes and wanton waste of money in lavish expenditures on entertainment were declared here by Viscount Lee Fareham in a talk before the English Speaking union, as today's greatest danger to the stability of the Anglo-Saxon races.

Agitators and agents of Bolshevism throughout Russia and the non-Christian nations were using these pictures, he said, in spreading antagonism against the English speaking peoples.

"In India, China and Africa—everywhere one goes throughout the world—one finds people by the tens of millions attending picture shows of American origin where the white man and the white woman are shown in relations of despicable immorality," said Viscount Lee. "These people cannot read English; they cannot write it; they never heard of our newspapers, nor of American papers; nor can they read each others' languages; but the language of the eye is the same with all peoples. Only through the films can they get any conception of the life of the white man in his own country and his own environs."

"And what they see 80 per cent of the time is a cross section of extravagance and moral filth. 'So this', they say, 'is how the white man lives at home!'"

Agents Use Films
"The result is an inevitable lowering of the prestige of the white races in every non-white race in the world. And you may be sure that the agents of bolshevism and discontent are using these films to their advantage in advocating the overthrow of Anglo-Saxon rule."

"If this English Speaking union wants a thoroughly worthwhile task to do may I suggest that the reform of the American movies offers an extremely fertile field of service."

Another of the dangers that British-American unity faced, said Viscount Lee in another part of his speech, related to the danger of "slopping over" as he expressed it, in declarations of friendship between the two nations.

"Don't Stop Over"
"Nothing so quickly leads to boredom as for two persons, or two nations, to be figuratively constantly patting each other on the back, and saying what fine fellows they are. It is a real and serious strain on good relations."

"Another misconception that the Englishman labors under when he thinks of America is that Americans are mostly of British stock. Let one pick up a copy of a New York telephone book and run his finger down its columns looking for a good old Anglo-Saxon name. Nothing will so quickly disillusion one's British stock conception as a test like this."

"Fortunately however the government is run by men of Anglo-Saxon descent. Especially is this so in the personnel of the U. S. supreme court."

"So long as the leadership of the country is in the hands of men of English descent or tradition I think we need have no fear of a smash-up of relations between the two countries. So long as the captains of these ships steer their courses well and wisely we need not worry about the composition of the passengers."

"But heaven help the captains, and the passengers as well, if ever the captains should steer foolishly and bring the two ships into collision."

English Flats Furnished With Folding Berths

LONDON, July 13.—The demand for living space in London is so acute that bunks, one above the other, similar to those aboard ships and which fold up out of sight when not in use, have been placed in some of the newest flats in the crowded city, where inches have to be taken into consideration when ever a building is done. Another innovation in the compressed furniture line, is a "six in one" contrivance, which includes a folding bed, washstand, chest of drawers, mirror, shoe rack, and space to place the bedding when the bed is not made up.

Expect 1925 To Be Banner Year In Auto Touring

This year, from all indications, will be the banner years of transcontinental touring, in the opinion of Fred Medbury, local agent for the Cleveland Six. "This prediction is made plausible both by the increased output of new cars and the betterment of road conditions which show from 20 to 60 per cent improvement over 1924," Medbury said. "This not only applies to cross-country highways, but the continual improvement which is being made in almost every state in the Union."

"Reports from Cleveland dealers in all sections state that roads are choked with travel, and it is safe to say that any person standing on any national road at almost any point will find scarcely a five-minute interval between passing cars."

"The lure of the open road is made more attractive by the number of camping spots both in the west and the east, whereas a few years ago long stretches were encountered where one might travel from 50 to 100 miles and not encounter habitations; today you can scarcely get 20 miles away from water, gas and other necessities. Those who desire greater comforts can start out for any spot in the United States and reach a stopping place every night where they can obtain a room and bath."

Boy of 9 Kills Grandmother by Accidental Shot

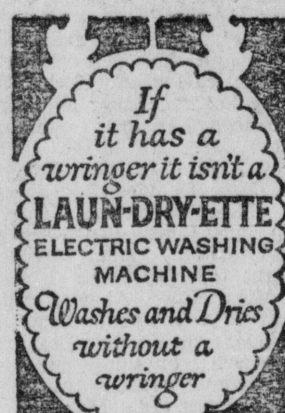

ELKO, Nev., July 13.—Mrs. Rebecca Richman was killed by the accidental discharge of a shotgun held by her 9-year-old grandson, while she was attending a family reunion picnic at Metropolis, a small settlement near Elko. The shot tore off her right arm, causing her death three hours later. Mrs. Richman was visiting her daughter from her Montana home. Although blind from birth, Mrs. Richman married and reared 12 children.

If it has a wringer it isn't a LAUN-DRY-ETTE ELECTRIC WASHING MACHINE Washes and Dries without a wringer

Washes the Clothes Then Whirls a whole tubful dry for the line in one minute

Since it has no wringer, the LAUN-DRY-ETTE cannot smash buttons or fasteners

Prevents Red Hands! With the LAUN-DRY-ETTE you never have to put your hands in the water

The Only Electric washing machine that is Different

AMERICAN inventive genius produced the telephone, the incandescent lamp and the vacuum cleaner, but for many generations it neglected the washtub.

The application of electric power to the laundering of clothes marked an important step forward, but it produced no radical change in the method of washing until the invention of the Laun-Dry-Ette seven years ago. The Laun-Dry-Ette at once released the housewife from the bondage of wringer and extra tubs—and thus eliminated all the heavy work of washday.

The Laun-Dry-Ette has made the three-tub-and-wringer method of washing obsolete. For it has no wringer to feed and requires no extra tubs. Yet it not only washes the clothes, rinses them and blues them, all in one tub—but it whirls the entire tubful dry for the line in one minute.

If you want an electric washer that both washes and dries; that needs no extra tubs; that can't smash buttons or fasteners; that saves your strength; that prevents red hands—in short, the most modern and helpful machine you can buy—then you need the Laun-Dry-Ette.

Real Globe Trotters Found Here, But All Are Satisfied with Orange County

TRAVEL URGE IS FELT BY SEVERAL

Policeman, Fireman, Artist and Florist Among Wayfarers of City

By NEIL STANLEY

One doesn't have to be a traveling salesman or a sea captain or a marine to be a globe trotter. In all walks of life will be found men, and women, too, who have been to the far corners of the earth.

Santa Ana has her share of travelers. And most of them, like travelers the world over, still have the urge to visit new places. For that reason, John O'Brien, patrolman with the local police department, occupies a unique position. O'Brien, who has been all over the world, declares that he has had enough and is minus any desire to visit some strange city.

O'Brien, who comes of a family of theatrical folk, commenced his journeys in the early eighties on a trip from San Francisco to Australia, New Zealand and the South Sea islands. Later, he went to India. The theatrical troupe that he was with went from one end of India to the other. England, Ireland and Scotland were next and about that time, the call of the United States became too insistent to be ignored any longer.

HORSE RACING LEGALIZED IN UTAH AFTER HAVING BEEN UNDER BAN THIRTEEN YEARS

The law, the church and the fans were all on hand to watch horse racing come back to Utah. After a period of 13 years, the sport has been restored by action of the state legislature. Photo shows Lizette, 6-year-old bay mare, with Holsko up, winner of the inaugural claiming stakes race. Others, left to right are: Miss Lorene Holmes, daughter of Ernest Holmes, Utah fair manager; Herbert J. Grant, president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon); Gov. H. Dern and B. F. Grant, chairman of the racing commission. Pari-mutuel machines were legalized along with the racing.

O'Brien's fancy and he enlisted. That was in 1895. He was stationed at Key West, Fla., when the Spanish-American war started and was immediately transferred to Cuba.

O'Brien was discharged from the army in 1904. He served on police forces in Tampa and Jacksonville for some time and at the outbreak of the World war, served as plain-clothes man with the Fifth Naval district. He was chief of police of the government guards in Mobile, Ala., for several months, when the call of the west got into his blood and he came to Santa Ana.

O'Brien was asked if he ever felt the lure to again visit the far-away places.

"I'm perfectly satisfied right here in Santa Ana and the desire to travel great distances has entirely left me," the patrolman replied.

Alaska and Europe appeal to Lacy and some day he hopes to achieve his ambition to visit them.

MINISTERS TO HOLD SERVICES IN BIRCH PARK

Annual Union Meetings Will Be Conducted During August by S. A. Pastors

Union church services, to be held in Birch park each Sunday during August and the first week in September, will start at 5 p. m. it was announced today by the Rev. H. G. Burgess, pastor of Richland Avenue Methodist church, secretary of the Santa Ana Ministerial association, under whose auspices the union services will be conducted.

At the same time the secretary stated that evening services would be held for the period in the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church, South, the Richland Avenue Methodist church and the United Brethren church, the services starting at 7:30 p. m.

For the union services it is the hope of the association to develop a large choir, and a request has been made that those who will sing in the choir report at the park each Sunday at 4:45 p. m.

Officers of the ministerial association have assigned speakers for the different Sunday evenings. The Rev. Otto S. Russell, pastor of the First Baptist church, will initiate the union meetings, preaching on the afternoon of August 2. Other assignments are as follows:

August 9, the Rev. F. T. Porter, pastor of the First Christian church.

August 16, the Rev. T. B. Hitchcock, retired pastor, of Los Angeles, who will fill the pulpit of the First Congregational church during the absence of the Rev. Perry F. Schrock.

August 23, the Rev. Will A. Betts, pastor of the First Methodist church.

August 30, the Rev. Johnston Calhoun, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, Long Beach, who will replace the Rev. W. H. McPeak, pastor of the local United Presbyterian church.

Many pastors of the city have arranged to take their vacations during the month. It has been the custom for several summers past for the churches to join in union services at the park and the meetings have been largely attended.

RUM RUNNERS KILL DEPUTY SHERIFF AND THEN ESCAPE

Surrounded after a battle at Moss Landing, Calif., in which they used a machine-gun, rum runners managed to break through the line and escape. Led by an auto which carried their machine gun, the runners fled toward San Francisco, but not until they had killed H. N. Rader, lower left, of Salinas, a deputy, and wounded Sheriff W. A. Over, lower right. Federal troops were called into action after the battle, but they arrived too late to catch the desperate gang. It is believed the runners were awaiting a shipment of booze off Monterey. Fred Stone, above, suspect, is shown in jail with a deputy.

EXTENSION OF BOUNDARY LINE OF SANTA ANA IS SUGGESTED

Annexation of Territory to North and South of Municipal Limits is Urged

PERRIN NAMED AS COMMITTEE HEAD

Winbiger Entertains Members of Realty Board by Describing Trip Abroad

Enlargement of the city of Santa Ana by annexation of districts north and south of the present city limits should be accomplished in the immediate future to insure Santa Ana proper territorial boundaries, in the opinion of members of the Santa Ana Board of Realtors.

K. Perrin, realtor, at the last meeting of the board, pointed out that at present Santa Ana is limited to a very small area and that population could be gained by annexation. He also directed attention to the possibility of property to the north that should come into this city being annexed by another city.

Perrin was named by J. E. Livsey sr. as chairman of a committee to make investigations looking to enlargement of the city by annexation.

During discussions, suggestion was made that, on the north, the city limits should be extended north to Chapman street on the west side of North Main street, and west to the Santa Ana river, and that the south limits should extend to Delhi road.

T. A. Winbiger entertained the board members with a recital of scenes and some of the observations he made on his tour abroad. Commenting on farming operations in the valley of the Nile, Winbiger said farmers still use the most primitive implements and methods. He declared that he saw men in "bucket brigades" dipping water from the river and pouring it into ditches for distribution to lands for irrigation. Old-fashioned water wheels, with buckets on them, also were in operation, with horses or oxen turning the power.

Sticks are still used for plows, and the traveler saw many times men and women pulling the plows, a horse and ox hitched together or a man and a woman hitched along with an ox in organization of a "plow team."

Conductor's Wits Save Passengers And Two Coaches

GARY, Ind., July 12.—Co-operation, quick wits and speed combined to extinguish a blaze on a South Shore electric suburban train, when Conductor Patrick McCurdy carried his fire to the fire department.

The flames were discovered when the train was about two and a half miles from a water supply. While passengers were transferred to another coach, a rendezvous with the fire department was arranged by telephone.

Full speed ahead was ordered and the fire department met the train at the outskirts of the city and saved two cars from the flames. The third car was burned to a shell.

PREDICTS LONG FLORIDA REAL ESTATE BOOM

Predictions that the Florida real estate boom will continue for several years, and extend to adjoining territory along the coast of the Gulf of Mexico, were made today by Percival Stern, New Orleans capitalist and president of the Interstate Electric company, of that city. He is registered at Hotel Santa Ana. He is accompanied by Mrs. Stern and daughter, Miss Lois B. Stern.

According to Stern, the protection given individual fortunes by Florida, including a recent amendment to the state constitution denying forever enactment of a state inheritance tax and a state income tax, has gone far to attract wealth from all parts of the country particularly from the middle west and the eastern states, he continued.

Development projects, running into hundreds of millions of dollars, fully financed, are already under way and there are others under consideration, he declared.

While it is true that the climate does not measure up to that of Southern California, the fact that a millionaire may save enough on inheritance and state income tax to build himself a palatial home, and thus establish legal residence, is a consideration that offsets climate and scenery, he observed. He also added that the greater number of those who have moved to Florida to escape taxation, spend only a few months of the year at their newly-acquired residence, devoting the remainder of their time to travel.

Police News

Motorcycle Officer W. W. Myers started a two weeks' vacation today. He is going first to Shorty Myers camp, Big Bear lake, for a few days' fishing and later intends to go to Catalina island.

Harold Walker, 1223 East Second street, reported to the city police department last night that his automobile, parked near the Grand Central market, has been stolen.

Anaheim police have notified the sheriff's department that a touring car was stolen in that city Saturday night.

The theft of a clock from his machine has been reported to the local police department by Harry Clayton, 615 Fairview street. The car was parked in the yard of the Excelsior creamery, East First street.

Charged with being in possession of intoxicating liquor, A. G. Anderson, 41, Lineman, of Upland, was arrested by city police last night and lodged in the county jail.

ORDERS BRIEFS FILED IN FIGHT OVER ESTATE

Attorneys for Peter J. Mathews and C. G. Seamans were today preparing briefs to be submitted to the superior court in determination of title to 45 acres of land in the vicinity of Santa Ana. The property comprised the estate of the late Martha Mathews, wife of Peter Mathews, whose suit is filed against Seamans as administrator of her estate.

Mathews is seeking a court decree, making the property community property instead of separate property of the deceased, and to have him declared sole owner, in view of his wife's demise. Attorney G. H. Scott represents Mathews, with Attorneys Charles D. Swanner and Roland Thompson appearing for Seamans. The case was heard before Superior Judge Z. B. West, who ordered briefs to be filed, allowing five days for the plaintiff's opening brief, five days for the defendant's answer and five days for rebuttal.

Americans Are Heavy Tipsters, Stewards Find

NEW YORK, July 12.—Reports circulated in Southampton that the American state department has put down its foot on extravagant tipping by its representatives have brought out tales of the largest of some American millionaires when they leave the vessels that have carried them in safety across the Atlantic.

It is related among steamship stewards that on one trip recently an American millionaire gave $10 to every member of the crew of the ship on which he was traveling, and $25 to each of the officers. His tips, it was estimated by the stewards, cost this individual $10,000.

Another passenger not long ago surprised a steward by presenting him with $400 after a six-day passage from New York to Southampton.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Odd is only a sailor dog, but the whole New York waterfront is talking about a record of his own he has just smashed to bits.

Odd's duty on the steamer President Wilson of the Cosulich line is to ferret out stowaways. He found great hunting on the trip the President Wilson has just made from Italy.

Twenty ocean hoboes were dragged before the captain by Odd. One by one he scented them out and revealed their hiding places.

3 TEAMS IN THE FOR COUNTY LOOP LEAD

NORMAN HOYLE IN S. A. CLUB TOURNEY WIN

Comes Back to Links After Three Weeks Respite and Turns In Card of 80.

Three weeks ago Norman Hoyle, crack local golfer, temporarily gave up his golf, and he attended the harvesting of his apricot crop at El Toro. The respite apparently did Hoyle a world of good for he made an auspicious return to the turf course Saturday, shot seven strokes under his previous low score and walked off with the Santa Ana Country club's medal tournament.

The victory netted Hoyle a beautiful sweater and golf hose which was donated by the Spencer Collins men's shop of Santa Ana. Rumors were current around the clubhouse that the victory also will cost Hoyle a few strokes off his playing handicap. The champion turned in a very creditable 80.

Second prize, a golf club, was captured by J. S. Warner, a southpaw golfer, who came home with an 84. Third and fourth prizes, two golf balls, were shared by M. W. Clark and R. A. Mosher. Clark turned in a gross 84 and Mosher a gross 92.

This was the first tournament held under the direction of the new handicap committee. Homer Robinson and Jimmy Livesey challenged any two members of the club and proved their worth by defeating John W. Tubbs and Mark Lacy one up. Robinson is likely to be seen in his golf togs for several days as when he and his wife reached home after the game they found that someone had been there before them and removed all the rest of their wearing apparel together with several articles of jewelry.

Fred Parsons reports that C. G. Twist is without a goat as he took it away on the last hole. Several other goat tournament matches were played but not reported.

Fights and Fighters

NEW YORK—"There is no chance for a Dempsey-Wills fight this year," Jack Kearns, manager of the heavyweight champion, said before leaving for California. "Wills has gone to Europe for two months and even if articles were signed now it would take Wills and Dempsey three months to train properly. As soon as the New York commission Dempsey assurance that the fight can be staged, Dempsey will accept the Wills challenge."

NEW YORK—Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, is in a hospital recovering from an operation for the removal of his tonsils. He expects to be discharged in five days and will resume training then at White Sulphur Springs.

Billy Evans Says

Winning a major league pennant usually resolves itself into a battle between the contenders.

The ability of a certain team to beat one or more contenders is invariably the margin of victory at the close of the season.

In the National League last year, New York won the pennant by 11 points, a game and a half margin over its closest contender, Brooklyn.

The ability of the New York Giants to win a majority of games from Brooklyn made possible that scant margin of victory.

The Giants defeated Brooklyn in 14 of the 22 battles staged.

A similar condition existed in the American League at the close of the 1924 campaign, Washington enjoyed an 11-point lead over New York.

Washington beat New York 13 out of 22 games and polished off Detroit, the other contender in 14 of the 22 contests.

New York won in the National League because it had the edge on its closest contender, Brooklyn. Washington finished out in front in the American because it could consistently trim the New York Yankees.

Washington is out to repeat in the American league, while New York hopes to make it five straight pennants in the National.

Crucial Series

Recently the two contenders of the year met in what might be considered the first crucial series in each league.

Pittsburgh, away to a bad start in the spring, slowed up the Giants by taking a four-game series. Shortly afterwards the club slipped into first place.

The Philadelphia Athletics, surprise team of the American League, was beaten four times out of five by the world champions, Washington.

The three-game margin gained by Washington in the five-game series, dropped the Athletics out of first place after holding it almost from the start of the race.

Baseball experts are wondering if there will be an aftermath to this decisive defeat of the Athletics. Will the unexpected reverse upset Mack's young team?

The series may be the turning point in the race for the Athletics. It will test the courage of the Mackmen to the limit, prove the gameness of the club.

It is my opinion that Philadelphia will again resume its winning ways. It is too great a club, packing too strong a punch, to wilt under its first great reverse of the year.

In baseball, "guts" is a far better, though as elegant a word as courage, when speaking of a team's gameness.

On one occasion last year Washington dropped three out of four games to Cleveland. Later New York won four out of five in a very important series. The worst reverse was when St. Louis copped five straight from the team presided over by Stanley Harris.

All of these setbacks came at a time when victories were sorely needed. Had the club lacked "guts" it would have been a very different matter for it to curl up and quit.

That is one failing the Washington club doesn't have. The spirit of its manager, Stanley Harris, makes for courage.

Instead of quitting Washington fought back all the harder and was rewarded with pennant and world championship.

Piping 'Em Off

Yesterday's hero—Zach Taylor, the Brooklyn catcher, hit a home run in the ninth inning and beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 4 to 2. Cuyler and Wheat also delivered home runs.

Grimm's double in the sixteenth inning scored Brooks with the run that gave the Cubs a 9 to 8 victory over the Giants. Young tied the score in the ninth when Hartnett threw the ball away registering disgust at a decision of the umpire.

Frank Davis blew up in the second inning, letting in three runs on a hit, two passes and a wild pitch and a wild throw letting Washington beat the Browns, 5 to 3.

Pounding Dauss and Wells for 21 hits, the Athletics beat the Tigers, 8 to 1. The Tigers didn't get a run off Rommel until the ninth inning.

Earl Combs made eight sensational catches in center field but the Yankees couldn't do anything against Ted Lyons and the White Sox won, 3 to 0.

The Indians got 18 hits off Elmyne and Neubaum and beat the Red Sox, 13 to 3.

REISTER HURLS SHIELDS TEAM OUT OF CELLAR

Hitting everything Pitchers

White and Jackson had to offer, the Shields Paint company baseball team spilled the dope bucket all over Costa Mesa park yesterday afternoon in whipping the powerful Van Dien-Young company club, 12 to 1. The victory hoisted the Painters out of the Orange County Summer league cellar and made them greatly feared by the two teams that must yet face them this season.

"Tex" Reister, the big high school left hander who toiled on the ridge for the Shields outfit, looked like a regular big leaguer in moving down the hard hitting Trunkers' inning after inning and letting them off with three scattered bingles.

White, the Van Dien-Young ace, was driven off the rubber in the fourth spasm and "Husky" Jackson, his successor, was subjected to more brutal treatment.

After the Trunkers scored their lone marker in the first frame on a walk and an error, the Shields men made two in the second, three in the third, two in the fourth and five in the eighth.

George Sinsley's fielding was a feature. The Painter third sacker handled eight tough chances without the semblance of a bobble.

George Mathews, third base guardian for the Van Dien-Youngs, was forced out of the game in the sixth when he was accidentally spiked on the hand. Hayden's power house hitting figured in the Shields victory. Hayden collected a triple and two singles in three attempts.

AMERICAN MERMAID, 17, TO COMPETE IN EUROPEAN MEETS

INTRODUCING

Miss Martha Norelius, 17-year-old Olympic swimming star and world record holder, who will compete in water carnivals in Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Holland and Germany this summer.

Obviously, she hopes to show her European sisters just how American lassies grab off title after title in aquatic sports.

Feasting on the offerings of Pitcher Alcot for 25 bingles, Westminster had little difficulty in "taking" El Modena, 14 to 3, at Midway City yesterday afternoon. The win kept the Beet-Toppers in the running for the Orange County Summer league pennant.

The Westminster outfit was hitting savagely, hopping on Alcot for three runs in the first frame, three more in the third, two in the fourth and fifth, one in the seventh and three in the eighth.

Burns and Blaeholder, Beet-Topper fingers, kept their eight blows well scattered.

Shortpatter Page led the swat assault for the winners with five smacks in six attempts. His day's work included a triple and a brace of two-base knocks. Head got four blows and L. Penhall, McGuire, Blaeholder, C. Penhall and Burns all garnered three each.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Holding onto a title lead and fighting off a pursuit as relentless as anything in baseball, the Pittsburgh Pirates are still setting the pace in the National league pennant race.

Although they faltered slightly last week when they won only three of their five games, the Pirates had enough to hold off the charge of the Giants, who won five of their seven games. Now they will have it easier for a while after they leave the metropolitan district. They have two series coming up with the Phillies and the Braves and while these two clubs are not pushovers, they are less dangerous than the Cards and the Reds who are on the program of the Giants. The Braves have furnished strong opposition this year even if they are going no place in particular and it may be that the Pirates are in for a strenuous time.

The champion Washington Senators, leading the American league,

For four years the Pittsburgh Pirates were the big disappointment in the National league. Man for man, they were just about as good as the Giants. Perhaps they were even superior in all-around playing strength, but they didn't have the fighting heart of the Giants. They wilted when the pace became too hot and played with the attitude that a good team (the Giants) couldn't be beaten.

Frank Angell captured the fourth flight with 336. Franklin West was second with 425 and Jim Rhine third with 431.

The Junior Chambers next tournament will begin October 1, it was announced.

SENATORS WHIP MACKS 9 TIMES IN 14 GAMES

In the 14 games the Senators and Mackmen have played to date the Washingtons have won nine. This margin of victory partially accounts for the present standing of the two clubs in the chase. For outside of the Yankees, Washington up to the first of July had whipped the Mets of Mack more times than it had any other outfit.

FISHING BARGE AT BALBOA TO BE USED SOON

BALBOA, July 13.—Within two weeks the fishing barge off Balboa pier will be ready for use, according to Dr. Charles Ervin, who has been granted the franchise for operating the boat.

Construction of a landing platform at the end of the wharf is to be given immediately. Contract for the work was let to the Mercereau Construction company of Los Angeles.

The platform will be used by the life saving corps in case of emergency besides serving in the transfer of passengers to the fishing boat. The construction will be built on the east side of the pier. Large crowds of people will be accommodated daily on the barge, which will be anchored a short distance from the wharf in deep water. A similar boat is at present being operated at Newport Beach.

YORBA LINDA HILLS CHOSEN FOR OIL WELL

YORBA LINDA, July 13.—The hills north of Yorba Linda are to be given another wildcat, in addition to those already drilled. The development test is being backed by Huntington Beach capital. The wildcat well will be located four miles east of Olinda, on the Tebo ranch, and is to be drilled by the Tebo Oil company. A tract of 144 acres has been purchased by a group of Huntington Beach men, chiefly for its prospective oil value, and on this acreage is the well site. Drilling machinery for the well and rig timbers are being moved in.

The Huntington Beach men interested in the acreage are Robert Hickerson, superintendent of the Jameson Oil company; S. W. McColomb, H. T. Dunning, F. L. Slusher and J. H. Macklin. The Tebo Oil company was organized to drill the wildcat on the Tebo ranch. It is financed by Huntington Beach and Los Angeles capital, those interested in the drilling company being prominent men in the oil business in Southern California.

The site of the newest wildcat well in this part of California lies in a broken country of hills. A road can be built up a broad canyon from Carbon canyon. This road has been several weeks in the building, but was completed this week, and the work of dragging the oil well drilling equipment and rig timbers into the country began. The company will put up a derrick and equip with rigging sufficient to drill to a depth of 5,000 feet if necessary.

It is stated that a number of years ago an oil drilling company brought in a heavy gas well in the immediate vicinity of the present well site. Since that time the canyon is known as "Gas" canyon.

A well defined geological oil structure is said to occur in the area to be drilled, and geological examinations of the area have been made by prominent geologists and favorable reports received by the oil men who are undertaking the drilling operations.

LET GIRLS WEAR DUCK PANTS SANS BATHING SUITS, OPINION OF NEWPORT BEACH TRUSTEES

NEWPORT BEACH, July 13.—Beach shebas need not fear any hampering restrictions here this summer limiting their choice of what they shall wear and what they shall not wear. In canvassed opinions, every member of the city board of trustees expressed opposition to iron bound regulations for bathing so long as nothing unseemly was met.

Balboa and Newport Beach will not hand out disagreeable arrests and fines to the throngs of sweltering people who come to the beach to have an enjoyable time. There will be no spying on bathers to enforce unreasonable measures.

This comes as a special boon for the girls who have taken up the new fad of wearing white duck trousers. Authorities here will not follow the move made by Long Beach in requiring that bathing suits be worn under the "ducks" it was indicated.

That there is no ordinance treating with the disporting duck trousers was the point made by George P. Wilson, president of the board of trustees.

"We have no ruling that regulates the wearing of the trousers," Wilson said. "This matter is all foolishness. I am inclined to think." In the opinion of Councilman Fred Young, there "are not long-haired backnumbers here demanding measures similar to those enforced at Long Beach." Indecency can be suppressed, he said, but hard and fast limitations are undesirable.

"Let the girls wear what they wish," Councilman L. S. Wilkinson granted in taking a liberal stand. "A person can be as improper in full dress as in a bathing suit. I can see no objection to the wearing of duck outfits without bathing suits."

Dr. Conrad Richter held the view that free interpretation of the existing city rulings should be permitted to allow the people all the justified privileges possible.

Comments favoring the white duck uniforms were voiced by Councilman H. Cardozo Sloan. He remarked that he would "a thousand times rather see girls dressed in the attractive duck suits than simply in the skimpy bathing apparel."

With the issue taking this turn, pretty bathing sub-debts at the beach here were rejoicing in the thought of the cool hours they may spend basking in the breezy "ducks" without concern about violating some fanatical ruling.

DAUGHTER OF BEACH BANKER WEDS L. A. MAN

NEWPORT BEACH, July 13.—A romance of the beach begun 60 days ago, culminated Saturday night, July 11, when Margaret H. Wallace, eldest daughter of Lew H. Wallace, president of the First National Bank of Newport Beach and city treasurer, became the bride of Robert J. Hendry of Los Angeles. The Rev. Grover Ralston, pastor of the Newport Beach Methodist Episcopal church, performed the ceremony, using the ring service.

Both participants are graduates of the University of Southern California, where the bride completed a four-year scientific course and was house manager of the Pi Beta sorority, while Hendry completed a business course and was a member of Gamma Epsilon fraternity. He is at present manager of the college department of a department store in Los Angeles. Mrs. Hendry has been employed in her father's real estate office since her graduation in 1924.

The young people departed immediately after the ceremony for Long Beach and from there left for a honeymoon trip to Catalina Island. On their return they will visit his parents in San Diego and will be at home in Los Angeles after August 1. The bride is a niece of William H. Wallace, Long Beach capitalist.

Picture Making At Beach City Attracts Throng

NEWPORT BEACH, July 13.—A dying outcast on a South Sea island enacted his role before the motion picture camera here Saturday while hundreds of people looked on.

The "island" was constructed to take scenes for the picture, "With This Ring," being filmed by the B. P. Schulberg company. Stars in the picture are Miss Alyce Mills and Donald Keith.

Another movie set plying San Francisco in 1849 is under erection here by the Lasky company. "Mike's Restaurant," "Golden Gate Saloon" and other structures are being built on the lot at Tenth street and Central avenue preparatory to taking pictures this week.

Laguna Briefs

LAGUNA BEACH, July 13.—The regular meeting of the chamber of commerce will be held on Tuesday night this week and it will be the last meeting in the former Skidmore building on Ocean avenue, now owned by the Murphy interests. The next meeting will be Tuesday, July 22, in the new building built by the chamber of commerce at First street and Park avenue.

Some one stole a typewriter from the Laguna Beach cafe after midnight Saturday. Investigation by Officer F. E. Howell shows that entrance was gained by means of a key. No attempt was made to rob the cash register.

Grammar School Proposal Talked At Yorba Linda

YORBA LINDA, July 13.—The proposal of a new grammar school building for Yorba Linda will not down.

It bobbed up again when the Chamber of Commerce directors held their regular meeting, a delegation of residents asking the Chamber to go into the matter thoroughly. As a result of the discussion plans were made to circulate petitions over the entire district, and accompanying them to have definite estimates from architects covering the plans for a new building.

It is planned to offer three proposals to electors of the district. Asking the board of trustees to call a bond election.

Keep the present school site, adding to it property and thus increasing the school grounds to a trifling over three acres.

Purchase of the Lybarger ranch at Lakeview and Yorba Linda boulevard, a five acre tract, and erect on it a new ten room building. This would involve a bond issue of approximately $58,000.

MISSING AUTO IS DISCOVERED OVER BIG CLIFF

LAGUNA BEACH, July 13.—W. L. Scheu of Uplands parked his car on the cliffs near Boat canyon and took a stroll. When he returned to the place he believed he had left his auto it was not there. He examined all the Buicks he could find in the vicinity but his really own had disappeared. So he hiked down to the village and reported his loss to F. E. Howell, state traffic officer.

Howell went up on the cliffs to scout around. He found where the car had been standing and the direction it faced. He noticed that the tracks led backward and he followed them to the edge of the bluff. Climbing down he found the auto with the engine and front wheel almost straight up and its rear end resting on the sand. The front position of the machine was not scratched but the rear was badly damaged.

That was Saturday night. On Sunday the wreck was viewed by thousands who believed a tragedy had happened.

Scheu notified the insurance company to salvage his car.

same products that grow in this vicinity are found there and, in fact, some of the things grown here came from the Argentine, he says.

Of all the countries in South America, Lacy liked the Argentine best. Modern methods of farming and conducting business prevail there, but this is not true in the other countries, he declares.

"I have been in some interesting places and I hope to visit still others, but there is no place that can compare with Orange county as a place in which to live," said Lacy.

Bicycle Tour Appeals

A tour of France on a bicycle appeals to Jack Fisher, well known local artist. Fisher, who holds nine medals, is quite a globe-trotter, despite his youth. He has been in Central America, Japan, China, Alaska, Philippine Islands, Hawaii, Iceland, England, Ireland, Scotland, France, Italy and Belgium. He began his travels when 15 years of age and expects to keep on visiting interesting places until old age overtakes him.

Fisher considers France a wonderful country and hopes some day to take the trip he has in mind. By making the tour on a bicycle, he will be able to visit many quaint and fascinating places that the traveler on a train would miss, he says.

Still Feels Urge

Fred Rafferty, retired florist of Santa Ana, still feels the urge to travel, though he says that his future journeys probably will be in the United States.

Rafferty has been all over western Europe and has also traveled extensively in China, Japan and the Philippines.

Like most visitors to foreign lands, Rafferty has had his share of adventures. The one that remains best, he says, took place in Berlin, in 1914. With war declared, travelers who happened in the German city were fearful that they would be marooned there. But everyone who wanted to leave was able to get out in 24 hours, with excitement, he says.

Rafferty said today that he is starting next week on an extensive tour of the east.

Kern County Is Urged to Cancel All Insurance

BAKERSFIELD, July 13.—Stating that Kern county could save money by carrying its own insurance, Supervisor Stanley Abel, of Taft, declared that he favors cancellation of all policies as a matter of economy. The discussion resulted when the supervisor from the fourth district was informed that the loss on the Mariopola branch of the county library, damaged by fire on April 20, had not been covered by insurance company.

He immediately began to do some figuring, stating that in the last six years the fire loss by the county had been $1900 at the Kern hospital, $1000 at the general hospital and $1600 at Mariopola branch library, while the annual payments for insurance of county buildings was $5000 a year, making a grand total of $30,000 gross paid out and $3500 in losses, with the last loss yet unsettled.

His motion, however, seconded by Supervisor J. B. McFarland, that all insurance should be cancelled, was lost when put to a vote. Chairman Waggy cast the deciding vote, with Supervisors Williams and Hart.

Supervisor Williams said that he would want to consider the matter more thoroughly.

Supervisor Abel urged that the big oil companies and other corporations carried their own fire insurance and he suggested that Kern county was able to carry its losses and save money by doing so.

Supervisor Williams said that cashier's check shall be given as evidence that the bidder will enter into a written contract if awarded the work and will be declared forfeited if the bidder refuses to enter into a written contract after being requested to do so in writing by the Board of Supervisors of Riverside County, California.

The Board of Supervisors of Orange County, together with the Board of Supervisors of Riverside County and the Board of Supervisors of Imperial County, respectively, reserve the right to reject any and all bids not deemed advantageous.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of Orange County, State of California, made this 15th day of June, 1925.

T. B. TALBERT, Chairman.

J. M. BACKS, County Clerk and ex-Officio Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of Orange County, California.

EVENING SALUTATION

Can you bring all your faculties to the front, like a house with many faces at the doors and windows; or do you live retired within yourself, shut up in your own meditations? The thinker puts all the powers of his mind in reflection; the observer puts all the powers of his mind in perception; every faculty is directed outward; the whole mind sees through the eye and hears through the ear. He has an objective turn of mind as opposed to a subjective. A person with the latter turn of mind sees little. If you are occupied with your own thoughts, you may go through a museum of curiosities and observe nothing.—John Burroughs.

REMEMBER OUR SICK BOYS

The suggestion made by the Santa Ana auxiliary of the American Legion that Orange county housewives in canning fruit and making jellies and jams make a few extra jars or glasses of their product for the unfortunate sick veterans who are confined in the hospital at Camp Kearney is timely and thoughtful. We have no doubt concerning the response, for the fate of these men arouses the deepest sympathy of everyone who knows the facts concerning them.

Many of these men have not known a well day since the closing of the World war in 1918. It is now 1925. Many of them never again will know a well day. They are deserving of attention. It is regrettable that it is impossible to give them all diversions in entertainment and diet that would be good for them. However, their plight is constantly kept in mind by the tender-hearted women who are members of the auxiliary. Frequent visits are paid to the hospital and entertainments are carried to the hospital as occasion permits.

And in this work, other organizations are entirely sympathetic and helpful. The local chapter of the American Red Cross is joining with the auxiliary in the proposal for a jelly and jam day to be held four or five weeks hence. On that day the canned fruit and jellies and jams for the boys in the hospital will be brought together and will be taken to the hospital. Now is the time to prepare for that day.

HOPE IN JERUSALEM

As the Zion movement works itself out, strange things happen. One of the strangest is the change that has come over Jerusalem, now regarded by Zionists as the capital of the Hebrew race.

Solomon's ancient city is now, an American traveler finds, "a city of business and prayer," and nothing else.

The whole atmosphere is religious. There are three great religions represented there, Mosaic, Christian and Mohammedan, with as many "official" languages used, and but for this division of sects the whole city might seem the abode of one great religious order. Always there are bells calling the faithful to prayer. And since those who pray must also eat and wear clothing, there is business. But there is scarcely any other kind of business than these, scarcely any industry, and what is more remarkable still in this modern world, no recreation.

In one place there is an attempt at dancing, to American jazz music, but the dancers wear solemn faces and the whole thing seems a bit of acting rather than reality. There is no amusement whatever in the evening. Residents eat late supper, then go to bed.

Some of the American Jews find life too quiet, and want to return. Yet the prevailing spirit of the place, the traveler finds, is optimism.

There is the expectation that something will happen. Such a city of optimists could not be found elsewhere, it seems to me, save in a new oil town in America. Everybody is looking forward to something. Nobody seems to know exactly what it is, but they are certain that it is all to be very wonderful when it comes.

Will the wonder come, and what will it be? Is it the same old Messianic hope? And will the dream be fulfilled? A world that venerates Jerusalem may well wonder.

ACCURACY AND SPEED

An interesting modern test has been made of the old saying, "Haste makes waste." Two groups of typists of fairly equal abilities were put through a period of intensive practice. The first group was directed to work for the greatest number of words in a given time. The other group was directed to go no faster than was possible with no mistakes at all.

At the conclusion of the intensive training period the two groups showed little relative change.

Later, after four months without practice, each group was given another test. Both were required to copy unfamiliar matter for 10 minutes as rapidly as possible. It was found then that the speedsters wrote an average of 383 words with 2.2 words wrong per 100. The accuracy group, which had formerly been the slow group also, wrote an average of 451 words with only 1.2 words per 100 wrong.

Several things were learned in these tests. First, it appears, results in human training must not be looked for too soon. There is a period of adaptation during which the practice and skill pass into definite accomplishment. Progress may be said to be rhythmic rather than constant. Also, doing the thing the right way, although that may be the clumsy one during the learning period, makes for ultimate speed.

LIBERIAN RUBBER

Rubber is to be grown in Liberia. Harvey Firestone, the American tire manufacturer, has been experimenting with a plantation there and finds that the soil and climate are favorable to the rubber plant, so plans are being made for its cultivation on a big scale.

This is one of the many moves taken by the American rubber and tire industries to overcome the handicap caused by British monopoly of rubber production in the East Indies. The cost of crude rubber lately has been five times as high as it was a couple of years ago, chiefly because of artificial control of production and prices by British interests. There are doubtless many other parts of the world where rubber can be produced, and many sources of rubber other than the plants hitherto used for that purpose.

In the long run, this temporary corner in rubber, said to cost the American people something like $300,000,000 a year, will be a good thing, through its forced broadening of the arena of supply and its stimulation of new output. It will be a good thing for Liberia, too, if that country, hitherto a political and economic failure, can develop into a thriving center of rubber production, thereby justifying its name and proving itself of some use to the world.

Restoring The Missions

Riverside Press.
One of the old hymn writers penned the line: "God moves in most mysterious ways his wonders to perform." It might be called quite a mysterious way to shake down all Santa Barbara in order to arouse a sentiment for restoration and preservation of the missions, on many of which have fallen into decay and all of which require attention if they are to be perpetuated as landmarks of an heroic and unique chapter in California history. Human nature is the same all over the world and in all ages. Great things are done through waves of sentiment and not solely because of their need or of intellectual appreciation of that fact. It was such waves that set the crusaders on their way. It swept us into the world war.

For many years there has been made an effort to arouse Californians to a sense of the need of restoration of the crumbling missions. As the years have passed some of these have practically disappeared and are but a heap of ruins, like that of Nuestra Señora de Soledad, at Soledad, La Purisima Concepcion, at Lompoc. Others lie partly in ruins, barely more than the main chapel being usable, such as Santa Ynez, north of Santa Barbara, San Miguel Archangel, at San Miguel, San Jose de Guadalupe, near San Jose. In fact, there is not a single one where much of the old buildings has not tumbled down or disappeared entirely. In most cases all that can now be saved is the mission church proper.

The wave of sentiment for the restoration of the earthquake shattered Santa Barbara Mission ought to be high enough and strong enough to provide a fund for at least saving what is left of all the others. These are the great landmarks of an era of California history glorious in its spirit and achievement, and inheritance of inspiration to all Californians and mankind generally throughout the world. They should not be permitted to disappear from the sight, and thus finally from the recollection, of men.

Find Right Road to Ruin

San Francisco Chronicle.
Rum runners are showing poor judgment in their operations on both Atlantic and Pacific coasts, unless they are trying to find out what enforcement will be like with the whole nation behind it.

While a smuggling crew fought with coast guards near the summer White House in Massachusetts, with President Coolidge watching the skirmish, an expedition with a machine gun on the Monterey coast killed a deputy sheriff and wounded the sheriff and a policeman.

Prohibition has been pretty freely violated because it is only one of many things the government has to look after. The force of the nation never has been concentrated on its enforcement. In some places the sheriffs and policemen are understood to look upon violations, if not with a sympathetic eye, at least with more tolerance than for other lawbreaking.

But the tactics of the rum runners may bring a sudden change in front. If impudent foreigners are to seek out the neighborhood of the President to show their contempt and defiance of America's laws drastic steps will be forced upon Washington.

Further than this, a very good way to become unpopular with policemen and sheriffs is to kill some of them. Rum runners, from enjoying consideration as fancy gentlemen following an interesting adventure, are likely to find themselves overnight classed as vicious criminals, to be hunted down and exterminated by any law officer who would save his own life.

A few such adventures by rum runners may do more toward prohibition enforcement than all the activities of its advocates has been able to accomplish.

Tragedy Awakens County

San Bernardino Sun.
Tragic death of James M. West, for many years town marshal and constable of Needles, has aroused the county to the dangers that are encountered daily by peace officers. This is not the place to try the men who are charged with the murder of the officer. We take it that the district attorney and the courts understand the requirements for speedy justice. But aside from the concern and interest in the trial, citizens of the county may well pause to recognize the work that peace officers are doing. Otherwise West has died in vain. Probably there are 200 men engaged in the enforcement of law in this county, consisting of constables, police officers, deputy sheriffs, marshals and the sheriff. Many hundreds of times each year they are called upon to place someone under arrest, and they can never know when the object of their search will pull a pistol every time they request a person to submit to arrest or investigation. If they did a large portion of the public that does not realize the dangers involved in the innocent appearing atmosphere of a peaceful arrest would scoff.

Every few years, however, an officer of this country is shot and killed by some dangerous criminal who refuses to submit to arrest.

The cases are quickly forgotten, however, by the general public which gives entirely too little support to the men who protect them with their lives. West knew the dangers of the work he pursued. All experienced officers realize it, and day and night they toil, in most cases at far too meager pay, to add to the safety of the populace.

Equal Rights to Highways

Sacramento Bee.
Many drivers of automobiles fancy they have street and road rights superior to those of any person on foot. But that is not the law, as the Supreme Court of California has just pointed out in the case of a San Franciscan run down and injured while crossing a street.

The decision expressly says: "The right of drivers of automobiles to use public highways is not superior to that of the humblest pedestrian, and in the exercise of a common right to use the public highways all persons must exert constant care and attention. Nevertheless, numerous drivers expect everybody in the act of crossing a street to make a dash for the nearest sidewalk when the blast of a horn is heard."

It may be a luxury to run people down under such circumstances, but it is likely to be expensive in case of a suit for damages for personal injuries or death.

This San Francisco decision is nothing novel. Many such have been rendered in this country. They but follow one of the oldest principles of the common law with relation to vehicles and the rights of pedestrians.

It has been decided that even "jay-walkers," although violating a local ordinance, have common-law rights which entitle them to damages if injured through gross negligence or criminal recklessness on the part of the driver of a vehicle.

If It Isn't One Thing It's Another

Quality Of Faithfulness
Always Ready In Test

San Bernardino Sun

Every time there arises an emergency, when somebody must make a sacrifice for others, there is never wanting the one to meet it. We often hear the opinion expressed that heroism, the common everyday, garden variety, is gone and that the whole world is given over to selfishness. Yet we are constantly being given proof that such is not the case. Some days ago a train filled with people on their way to take ship for Germany, to make a visit to the land of their birth, was wrecked and many killed. Through the door of a Pullman car came clouds of steam from the locomotive, threatening death to all within. The colored porter made his way through the steam to the door, closed, saved many lives and lost his own.

When earthquakes wrecked Santa Barbara and tumbled her buildings into the streets, out on a pile of rocks in the ocean was a lighthouse, whose light was the only warning of danger to passing vessels. The lighthouse fell in ruins on the rocks, its woman keeper and her children barely escaping, and there, on that desolate place, with no shelter and nobody aware of their plight, all the next night she kept burning on the rocks a beacon fire, fed with wood from the wrecked house. While the earth was rocking around him the nightwatchman at the gas station rushed to the gate valve and shut off the gas from the whole city. The electric light man did the same. Had they given up to terror and forgotten their duty, the whole city might have gone up in flames.

The noise of falling buildings, the shaking of the one in which they were at work, with the momentary prospect of it also crashing to the ground, did not drive from their posts the telephone girls. Men hurriedly braced the walls with telephone poles, while the girls kept steadily on making connections and thus aiding in preventing panic and relieving the fears of friends and relatives all over the city. These are but humble examples of thousands occurring all over the land all the time. Time was when "noblesse oblige" was the motto of those who felt that their station in life compelled them to live the heroic part, but in this great democracy we are all nobles and all bear a common responsibility to "Act well your part," whatever it may be. If man could not rely upon man this would be a terrible world in which to live.

Worth While Verse

CONCILIATION

It's Summer, and the radiance
Of night has splashed the sky.
To tempt the towers, sneering up,
Repeating Babel's cry!
This time a year ago I saw
The sky through Spanish moss
That trailed from patient water-oaks
Like tangled, silken floss.

The rippling, cooling water's sound
In the cypress-hushed bayou.
Awakened startled resonance,
Pulsating slowly through.
The jasmine wind, with starlit feet,
Went creeping through the vines
To hunt a mellow-fluted sigh
That trembled in the pines.

And now I see the traffic crawl
Like alligators slow,
Replete with heaviness of food,
Too ponderous to go.
The smell of gasoline and oil—
Of restaurant and shop—
Conveys a constant restlessness
That knows no curb or stop.

Although I long for summertime
The way I comprehend,
I'll try to solve the mysteries
About its city trend;
And, country-bred, perhaps I'll learn,
By venturing, to know
The rituals attending it,
No matter where I go!

Play-

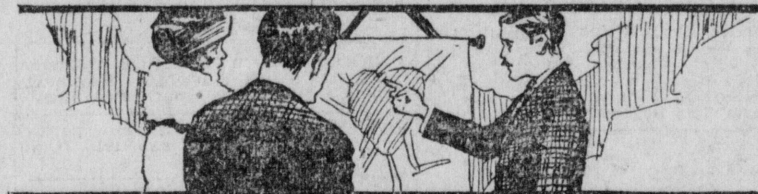

What do you mean, when you solemnly say, "I guess that I'm getting old?" I'll bet you've forgotten the secret of play, if the story were truthfully told.

You can't limp around in an old easy chair and spend all your time just a fretting. If that's what you do—well, it seems only fair that the age ache's the thing you are getting.

Too often we fail at just facing the truth 'cause it's easy to loaf life away. We know that there still is a calling of youth if we'd only get pep up and play.

Real vigor and vim will keep people in trim though a great many years have been tolled. When you let such things halt, well, it's just your own fault if you have to admit that you're old.

Come on there, young fellow, don't simply be yellow, but put up an age fight that's real. If you'll learn how to play, you'll agree, when I say, that you're only as old as you feel.

First-Page Space For Battle of Waterloo

Sacramento Bee

One of the oldest and also one of the most conservative of newspapers is the London Times.

It still devotes its front page wholly to advertising—to what in the business offices of American papers are styled "small ads," which are in compact form, without heading or "display" of any sort. But included in these is the Times' famous "personal column," which to many curious readers is of more interest than general news.

On one famous historical occasion, however, the Times made an exception to its rule of confining its first page to advertising solely. That was on June 23, 1815, when it had news of the battle of Waterloo, fought on the 19th, and gave it a portion of the page, but without a heading of any kind. A very brief account of the event started in the lower half of the last column, and there ended, but an inside page contained the Duke of Wellington's own official report of the British victory, as obtained by the Times from the war department.

The first page story began in this fashion:

We have seen a gentleman who left Brussels on Sunday evening, at which time the people were manifesting the greatest joy for a decisive victory gained by the Duke of Wellington.

And so the "hear-say" recital ran on for about 200 more words. But on an inside page—likewise without "display," or even a conspicuous headline—Wellington's report gave a concise and clear account of the battle, including the military movements preceding and following the crushing defeat of Napoleon and the rout of the French forces. This filled a column or more, in ordinary type.

So it is plain that even in a great national and European crisis, when it was known to all that one of the world's most momentous battles was impending, the Times had no war correspondent, no news organization of any sort in the field, and was dependent wholly on chance information or slow official sources, for expected news of a nature most vital to the British people and the destiny of the empire.

What a marvelous change in the getting and publication of news has been accomplished in the intervening period, through the growth of newspaper enterprise, the coming of railroads, the telegraph and the telephone, power presses and other mechanical improvements, and public demand for speedy information of important events!

ADVENTURES
OF THE TWINS

Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 13.—A QUEER DINNER

Mrs. Sea-Cow took each of the Twins by the hand. That is, she held out a flipper on each side and Nancy took one while Nick took the other.

Away they all went through the Land of Wonders to Mrs. Sea-Cow's house.

"It smells good," said Nancy sniffing with her nose in the air.

"It's the soup," said Mrs. Sea-Cow. "Henry is a good cook. But your grammar is faulty, my dear. You should say, 'It smells finey'."

"Worse and worse," said Henry sticking his head out of the window. "That's no way to teach grammar."

"Soup cannot smell finey or any other way when it hasn't any nose. But thank you for the compliment, my dear. Come in, everybody."

Mrs. Sea-Cow's house was built of couch shells in which the sea was still roaring. It was really a very noisy house.

"Did you put out the best spoons?" asked Mrs. Sea-Cow running a flipper over the table to see if Henry had dusted.

"Yes, my dear," said Henry. "Also the lump sugar. It was as dusty as the table but I fixed it. I shook a little powdered sugar over each lump and now the dust no longer shows."

"Why, Henry!" said Mrs. Sea-Cow in a shocked voice. "I'm not sure that that is the latest way of dusting sugar." Then to the children: "We have so few visitors and we get so out of touch with the world! When you go home do write us and tell us the latest mode in sugar-dusting, won't you. But sit down or your cold tea will be warm and your hot soup will be cold and hominy will be—"

"Busted up," said Henry. "It's swelled so already it won't stay in the dish."

"For shame, Henry!" cried his wife. "Busted! indeed! You should say 'burst'!"

Nick laughed. "Excuse me," said he. "I didn't mean to be impolite. But really, if you don't mind, you are both wrong."

"Then what is right?" asked Mrs. Sea-Cow nervously.

"Burst," said Nick. "Past tense of burst is 'burst'."

"I haven't any more idea of what you are talking about than an oyster has of a cactus," said their hostess. "But if it's more grammar I give up. Grammar isn't what it was in the good old days when I went to the Isenberg school and learned my three s's—swimming and—"

"What were the other two?" asked Henry wiping the soup off his long mustache.

"I forget," said his wife. "Starting and stopping," I suppose," said Henry.

"Well, one thing it wasn't supping," said Mrs. Sea-Cow. "I never heard anyone make such a noise with soup before."

"Then you hear someone now," said Henry loudly supping another spoonful.

Nancy and Nick looked at each other. What a queer place the Land of Wonders was! So far they had not seen a sign of the Fairy Queen's honey bees.
